

HOOVER DECLARES U.S. LAWLESSNESS WORST IN WORLD

In Address to A. P., President Declares for Steady Day by Day Policy of Enforcement.

committed with impunity. At least 50 times as many robberies in proportion to population are committed in the United States as in Great Britain, and three times as many burglaries.

An Incomparable Record.

Even in such premeditated crimes as embezzlement and forgery our record stands no comparison with stable nations. No part of the country, rural or urban, is immune. Life and property are relatively more unsafe than in any other civilized country in the world. In spite of all this we have reason to pride ourselves on our institutions and the high moral instincts of the great majority of our people. No one will assert that such crimes would be committed if we had even a normal respect for law, and if the laws of our country were properly enforced.

In order to dispel certain illusions in the public mind on this subject, let me say at once that while violations of law have been increased by inclusion of crimes under the eighteenth amendment and by the vast sums that are poured into the hands of the criminal classes by the patronage of illicit liquor by otherwise responsible citizens, yet this is but one segment of our problem. I have purposefully cited the extent of murder, burglary, robbery, forgery, and embezzlement, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the eighteenth amendment. In fact, of the total number of convictions for felony last year, less than 8 per cent came from that source. It is, therefore, but a sector of the invasion of lawlessness.

Law Must Be Enforced.

What we are facing today is something far larger and more fundamental — the possibility that respect for law as law is fading from the sensibilities of our people. Whatever the value of any law may be, the enforcement of that law written in plainer terms upon our statute books is not, in my mind, a subsidiary question. Law should be observed and must be enforced until it is repealed by the proper processes of our democracy. The duty to enforce the laws rests upon every public official and the duty to obey it rests upon every citizen.

No individual has the right to determine what law shall be obeyed and what law shall not be enforced. If a law is wrong, its rigid enforcement is the surest guaranty of its repeal. If it is right its enforcement is the quickest method of compelling respect for it. I have seen statements published within a few days encouraging citizens to defy a law because of a particular journal did not approve of the law itself. I leave comment on such an attitude to any citizen with a sense of responsibility to his country.

President Must Lead.

In my position, with my obligations, there can be no argument on these points. There is no citizen who would approve of the President of the United States assuming any other attitude. It may be said by some that the larger responsibility for the enforcement of laws against crime rests with state and local authorities and its does not concern the Federal Government. But it does concern the President of the United States upon whom rests the primary responsibility of leadership for the establishment of standards of law enforcement in this country.

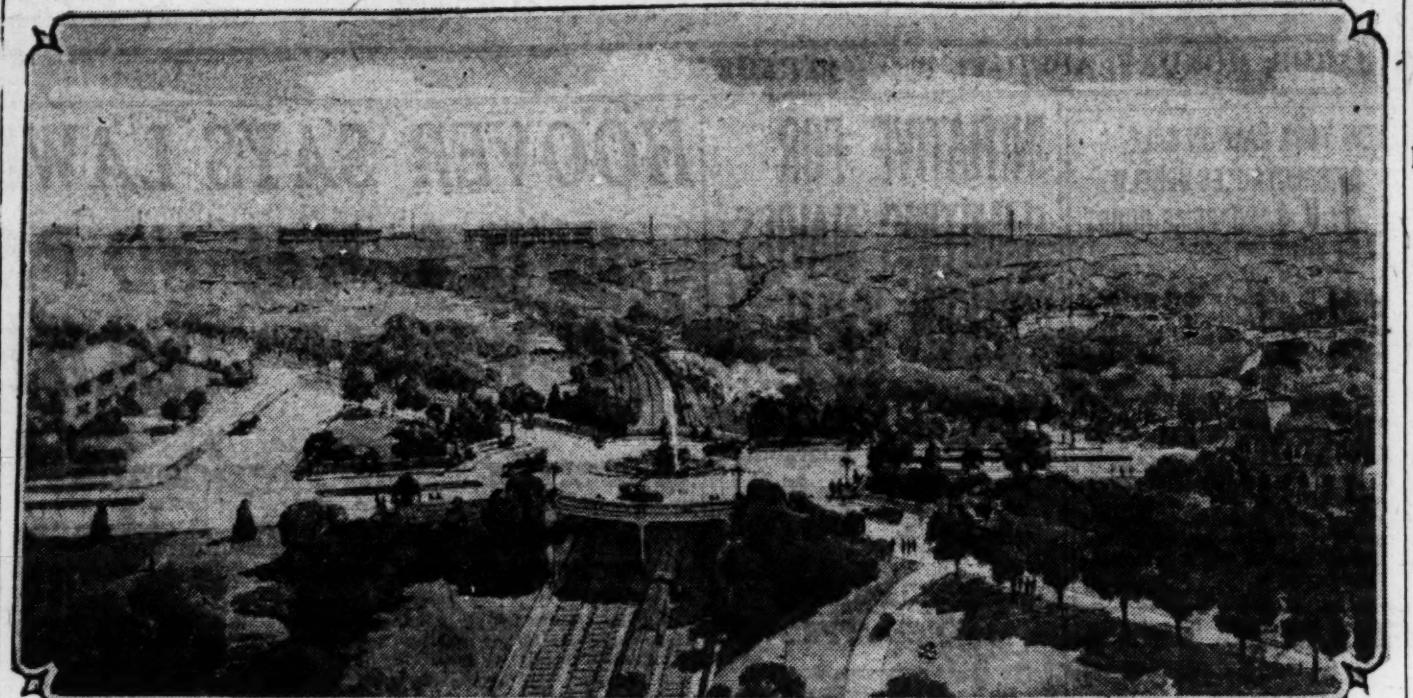

Respect for law and obedience to law does not distinguish between Federal and state laws — it is a common conscience.

After all, the processes of criminal-law enforcement are simply methods of instilling respect and fear into the minds of those who have not the intelligent and moral instinct to obey the law was a matter of concern.

The real problem is to awaken this consciousness, this moral sense, and if necessary to segregate such degenerate minds where they can do no future harm.

We have two immediate problems before us in Government. To investigate our existing agencies of enforcement and to reorganize our system of enforcement in such manner as to eliminate its weaknesses. It is the purpose of the Federal administration systematically to strengthen its law-enforcement agencies week by week, month by month year by year, not by dramatic displays and violent attacks in order to make headlines, but through misuse of the law in its enforcement, but by steady pressure, steady weeding out of all incapable and negligent officials no matter what their status; by encouragement, promotion and recognition for those who do their duty, and by the most rigid scrapping of the records and attitudes of all persons suggested for appointment to official posts in our entire law-enforcement machinery.

That is administration for which my colleagues and I are as fully responsible as the human material which we have at our disposal will permit us to succeed. Furthermore, I wish to determine and, as far as possible, remove the sources of inherent defect in our present system that defeat the most devoted efforts.

Every student of our law-enforcement mechanism knows full well that it is in need of vigorous reorganization: that its procedure unduly favors the criminal; that our judiciary needs to be strengthened; that the method of assembling, our juries need revision; that just as must be more swift and sure. In our desire to be helpful, the pendulum has swung in favor of the prisoner and far away from the protection of society. The patriotic mind of the American people in its over-concern about those who are in difficulties has swayed too far from the family of the murdered to the family of the murderer.

Proposed National Commission.

With a view to establishing public understanding, public support, accurate determination of the facts, and constructive conclusions, I have proposed to establish a national commission to study and report upon the whole of our problems involved in criminal law enforcement. That proposal has met with gratifying support, and I am sure it will have the co-operation of the bar associations and crime commissions in our various states in the widespread effort now being made by them. I do not propose to be hasty in the selection of this commission. I want time and advice, in order that I may select high-minded men, impartial in their judgment, skilled in the science of the law and our judicial system, clear in their conception of our institutions. Such a commission can perform the greatest of services to our generation.

There is another and vastly wider field than the nature of laws and the methods of their enforcement. This is the basic question of the understanding, the ideals, the relationships, of the individual citizen to the law itself. It is in this field that the press plays a dominant part. It is almost final in its potency to arouse the interest and consciousness of our people. It can destroy their finer sensibilities or it can invigorate them. I am well aware that the great majority of our important journals day by day give support to these high ideals.

I wonder, sometimes, however, if perhaps a little more support to our laws could not be given in one direction. If instead of the glamour of romance and heroism, which our American native minds too frequently throw around those who break the law, we would invest with a little romance and heroism those thousands of our officers who are endeavoring to enforce the law it would itself decrease crime. Praise and respect for those who properly enforce the law would help. Perhaps a little better proportioned balance of news concerning those criminals who are convicted and punished would serve to instill the fear of the law.

Flippance Is Deplored.

I need not repeat that absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American liberty. I put the question, however, to every individual conscience, whether flippancy is a useful or even legitimate device in such discussions. I do not believe it is. Its effect is as misleading and as distorting of public conscience as deliberate misrepresentation. Not clarification, but confusion of issues arises from it.

Our people for many years have been intensely absorbed in business, in the astonishing up-

JUDGE FARIS ASSAILED EVADERS OF JURY DUTY

Miscarriages of Justice Due in Large Part to Attitude of Panels, He Says.

"Good and patriotic" citizens who try to evade serving on juries were criticised by Federal Judge Faris from the bench today.

Judge Faris' remarks were called forth when only 35 men responded out of 65 summoned for petit jury service in criminal and civil cases, the other 30 being "hard of hearing, ill or out of the State."

"I venture to say," commented the Judge, "that a large part of the alleged miscarriages of justice about which the public declaims, and about which the newspapers editorialize, is due to the fact that in a very large measure the intelligent citizen, the law abiding citizen, the good and patriotic citizen, avoids, if he can, the rendition of this patriotic service."

Possibly the City of Des Peres will be replaced with track depression and a highway viaduct into the park next year; and the four lesser crossings between De Baliviere avenue and Delmar shall be removed in 1931.

Connected with the Union entrance plan, as has been told, is a plan for depression of the Wabash tracks in their diagonal course through the northeast section of the park.

Cut Planned Through Park.

When this plan is carried out, the railroad tracks, which now go through the park on an embankment, instead will traverse a cut, filled and on either side by hedge and other foliage, and crossed by highway and foot bridges. A part of the present embankment will be kept, and Grand drive, west of Lindell entrance, will be moved somewhat to the north and will ascend to the reduced level of the embankment instead of descending, as at present, toward the point where it passes under the railroad bridge.

The bridge and embankment would remain until the new route is completed. The cut to contain the tracks would run west and south of the embankment.

At present, the embankment is building of a great country, and have attempted to specialize in our occupations, to strive to achieve in our own specialties and to respect competency of others in theirs. Unconsciously, we have carried this psychology into our state of mind toward Government. The ideals, the relationships, of the individual citizen to the law itself. It is in this field that the press plays a dominant part. It is almost final in its potency to arouse the interest and consciousness of our people. It can destroy their finer sensibilities or it can invigorate them. I am well aware that the great majority of our important journals day by day give support to these high ideals.

Duty of Individual.

This attitude of mind is destructive of self-government, for self-government is predicated upon the fact that every responsible citizen will take his part in the creation of law, the obedience to law, and the selection of officials and methods for its enforcement.

Finally, I wish to again reiterate that the problem of law enforcement is not alone a function or business of Government. If personal independence is to be maintained, it is my honor to occupy:

"Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the character of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lips of her babe that breathes on her lap. Let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries, in colleges. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation, and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altar."

The President's reference to enforcement and obedience to law as the dominant problem before the American people brought a round of applause. From that point on the audience listened in silence until the end of the address, when the President was again applauded as he left the platform.

The President immediately left the hall to return to Washington with Mrs. Hoover, who occupied a box during the luncheon.

The President departed for Washington at 2:54 p.m.

The Sergeant ran to the telephone but immediately heard a second shot. He found the Chief dead, shot through the head.

HAWES ON OLD COMMITTEES

Patterson Placed on Four Groups in Senate Assignments.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the committee lists approved by the Senate today Senator Hawes (Dem.), Missouri, receives his previous assignments to the committees on Interstate Commerce expenditures in the Executive Departments and Commerce. Senator Patterson (Rep.), the new Senator from Missouri, is placed on military affairs, mines and mining, pensions and commerce. Through Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, a request came from the administration that Senator Patterson have a place on the Committee on Agriculture, but the Republican Committee on Committees, which makes out the lists for the majority party, had other views. Senator McNary of Oregon is the chairman of the Committee on Committees.

Col Stephen Orgen Fuqua to be chief of infantry with the rank of Major-General.

The nomination of Richardson settled a contest between the North Dakota Senators and friends of Parminter. It is one of the first recognitions given by the President to the Republican independent group.

Considerable importance is attached to the lands division in the Department of Justice because of the administration's oil policy. The prospective litigation over this policy is coming to a head.

Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, was a staunch advocate of Richardson's appointment. Nye is chairman of the Lands Committee which inquired into the leases on Salt Creek (Wyo.) oil fields. That inquiry has been referred to the Justice Department and will come under Richardson's supervision.

THE LAUNDRY WAR

Laundry prices have been high in St. Louis for a long time. In 1923 Attorneys General Barrett held that laundrymen could not be prosecuted under the Miller Act, which forbids laborers from entering price-fixing combinations.

His point was that the laundrymen were not guilty of violating the antitrust laws applied only to dealers in articles and commodities.

But competition has finally arrived. The mills are here to stay. Then we shall have the status quo ante.

That is, to pay the laundry business what it is worth. The laundry business has been a private monopoly charging as much as it dare, undisturbed by law. It is a situation which, in our opinion, calls for an immediate and radical change in statutory law.

It is of course, a constitutional question. The question is, does the laundry business have a right to exist?

30-Year-Old Second Husband of Late Governor's Widow to Get $137,000.

The will of Mrs. Margaret Johnson, widow of Lon V. Steppen, former Governor of Missouri, disposing of an estate estimated at $600,000 was filed in Probate Court at Clayton today.

After deduction of about $50,000 worth of jewelry and other valuable articles in specific bequests the will leaves 27 per cent of the residue, or about $127,000, to Mrs. Johnson's 30-year-old husband, John W. Johnson, former clothing store clerk, to whom she was married a year ago.

Seventeen per cent of the $300,000 residue was left to church in which Mrs. Johnson was interested, and 45 per cent was divided among 15 relatives and friends.

Mrs. Johnson, who maintained homes at 7108 Delmar boulevard, University City, and St. Petersburg, Fla., died April 17, at her Florida home. Her second husband formerly was employed in St. Petersburg store.

The will, filed by Charles M. Hay as co-executor with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., divides Mrs. Johnson's property by percentages with the exception of the specific bequests of jewelry, paintings, art objects and mementoes of her first husband, which are bequeathed to 24 relatives and friends. The Missouri Historical Society will receive the former Governor's sword.

Fifteen per cent of the residue is bequeathed to the Board of Finance of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; 1 per cent to Methodist Episcopal Church South, Jefferson City; 1 per cent to Nelson Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Bonnville, Mo.; 10 per cent to Mrs. Marjorie Barnes Heuer of St. Louis, friend and companion; 10 per cent in trust for Nelson Leonard Jr., 17, of Bonnville, a nephew; 5 per cent to Claude L. Clark of Topeka, Kan., former secretary to Gov. Stephens; and Mrs. Clark; 2 per cent to the Rev. Raymond Kimball, pastor of Cabana Methodist Episcopal Church South, which Mrs. Johnson attended.

Two per cent was bequeathed to Miss Anna Birch Lyons of Buffalo, a cousin; Charles Willard Leonard, Bunceton, Mo., a grandnephew, Mrs. Nellie See Bettie Webster Groves, a friend; Scott Heuer Jr., the son of Mrs. Heuer; Los Stephens McCoy, Los Angeles, a friend, and Roy S. Maurice Murphy of Beverly Hills, Cal., pilot of the air liner.

Louis D. Pratt, relief pilot of the liner.

Miss Kelley and Mr. and Miss Murphy were passengers.

Hundreds of persons saw the collision and the fall of the planes. Keefer was seen to jump and release his parachute, but it caught a wing of his plane and he dangled there until it crashed.

Keefer, a reserve pilot who was called into active service several months ago, performed auxiliary duties during the flight of the famous endurance plane Question Mark last January.

Says Officer Violated Rules.

The statement issued by the president of the Board of Air Control said:

"The stunting of Lieut. Keefer was an open violation of San Diego traffic rules as well as of the Federal Department of Commerce rules which forbid two planes closer together than 500 feet and forbids stunting in the air traffic lanes of commercial traffic."

"Lieut. Keefer evidently saw a chance to give the occupants of the Maddux plane a thrill, as other flyers have done, and he had no desire close to the big plane. It was just a plain case of his misjudging his distance and hitting the Maddux plane with his own."

The pilot of the Maddux plane appeared to be fighting his controls until the last in an effort to bring the ship safely down."

J. L. Maddux, president of the company operating the passenger plane, telephoned from Los Angeles a protest against permitting Army and Navy pilots to fly near air liners "to give passengers a thrill." He declared his pilots had flown 1,000,000 miles over a three-year period without an accident.

TORNADOES KILL 22 PERSONS IN SOUTHERN STATES

13 Dead in Southeastern Arkansas, Including 11 Negroes, Several of Whom Were at Revival.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22.—Southeastern Arkansas today surveyed the damage wrought by a tornado near Tilar yesterday in which 13 persons were killed and others injured. Seven were killed by a tornado in Mississippi and two in Louisiana.

Of the 13 persons killed near Tilar, 11 of them were Negroes. Ten white men who met death when the wind overturned their automobile, had not been identified. Two were injured so seriously they are not expected to live.

Several of the Negroes killed were attending a revival meeting under an arbor, which was demolished. All of the 11 were tenants on the property of the Tilar Plantation Co.

Gov. Harvey Parnell, whose home is at Dermott, 14 miles south of Tilar escaped the storm by half an hour. He said the wind attained high velocity as his automobile sped toward Little Rock, but he did not know of the tornado until he reached here.

Seven Dead, 30 Injured, in Bolivar County, Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.
GREENVILLE, Miss., April 22.—Three communities in Bolivar County, Mississippi, today counted seven dead, all Negroes, at least 10 injured, several seriously, and considerable property destruction in a tornado that swept that section yesterday afternoon.

Near Dahomey, five Negroes are known to have been killed, two white persons and 23 Negroes were injured. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Burnley were injured when their combination home and store was demolished. They were taken to a hospital at Beulah. One Negro was killed and three others injured slightly near Shaw. On the other plantation, eight miles northwest of Shaw, a Negro was killed and at least six houses were destroyed.

Innumerable homes and outbuildings on plantations throughout the section where the tornado struck were damaged or destroyed.

After visiting Mississippi the tornado continued in a northwest direction, striking again near Morehouse and Ouachita parishes in Northeast Louisiana. Numerous dwellings and barns were damaged in that section.

Two Women Fatally Hurt in Louisiana.

By the Associated Press.
MONROE, La., April 22.—Two persons were killed near Oak Ridge yesterday afternoon when a tornado swept that section. Mrs. S. Kennedy, about 75 years old, and a Negro woman, Lucy Gardner, 35, were injured fatally when the wind demolished their homes.

Damages Estimated at $300,000 to $500,000 Around Bolivar, Mo.

By the Associated Press.
BOLIVAR, Mo., April 22.—Several Southwest Missouri towns and villages are clearing up the wreckage of furious twisting winds that swept a wide area in the Ozark region early Saturday night, injuring 25 and causing a total property damage of between $300,000 and $500,000.

At Liberal, where the winds appeared to have spent most of their fury, 11 were hurt. Before reaching Bolivar, the winds left trails of waste and desolation in narrow paths in Barton and Vernon counties, injuring several and doing considerable damage to farm property. Two were added to the injured list at Liberal and Oskaloosa.

Fifty per cent of the property damage at Bolivar is covered with insurance, according to an estimate by P. A. Ryan, fire insurance agent who made a survey of the 40 damaged or destroyed homes in Bolivar.

$500,000 Damage From Hall Around Louisville, Ky.

By the Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. April 22.—A 12-minute barrage of heavy hailstones, some of them measuring nine inches in circumference, did damage estimated at $500,000 here and at New Albany and Samedon. Ind., just across the Ohio River yesterday afternoon. Two were killed in automobile accidents during the storm.

Miss Elizabeth Ransier, 14 years old, of New Albany, was killed when her automobile crashed head-on into another machine near Salem. Both drivers apparently were blinded by the hail and rain. Raymond Landrum a Negro, drove an automobile into a Louisville street car and was instantly killed.

Throughout this section of the Ohio Valley, hail ripped through automobile tops, roofs and windows. Hothouses of florists suffered severely while automobiles parked in streets were practically ruined in many instances.

Howard Rusk and Clifford Sanders, both 13, were killed, and a number of boys were shocked when lightning hit and ignited a barn adjacent to the baseball park at Walton, Ky.

the entire work of the preparatory commission on disarmament.

He said it seemed so important he wanted to make one or two observations without delay. No one, he declared, could fail to be struck by the "friendly, conciliatory and helpful spirit." He said he wanted to say that this was in the same spirit that Great Britain desired to approach the complicated and difficult question and endeavor to arrange any naval points of dispute.

He referred to the Kellogg pact and said that he was certainly not disposed to belittle it since he believed it profoundly important to the world outlook.

"It has done more to promote that security on which disarmament rests than any other event," he said.

According to the Franco-British accord limiting large cruisers, Lord Cushendun explained that, if in past negotiations Great Britain had consented to a scheme of reduction which left any class outside, this was not because Great Britain did not desire reduction in all classes. Rather, he said, it was because Great Britain was merely willing to forego some part of its ideal in order to gain an agreement. Great Britain, he said, wanted reduction to apply to all classes of warships.

He recalled that a year ago he had intimated that the British Government would be glad to see a further reduction in the sizes of ships in those classes covered by the Washington treaty, and also prolongation of the life of warships and the total abolition of submarine if other nations agreed.

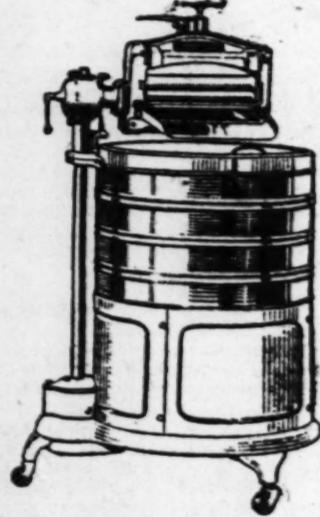

"This shows our willingness to carry further the principle of reduction," he declared. He then preferred to Gibson's reference to the equivalent of naval values and said he understood from the reference that the American Government had been examining the problem with the object of arriving at some system of equivalent British Studying Problem.

"We entirely agree that it is along those lines we ought to investigate the problem," he said. "The British Government has also been studying this problem, but before we can hope to achieve anything we should have the advice of experts."

"I am certain that any suggestion of this sort from the American Government will be examined most carefully by the British Government. I welcome the whole spirit in which Mr. Gibson has spoken and I am certain my colleagues have the same conviction because he has spoken in a spirit helpful to our work. His declaration cannot be passed over because it is likely to affect our whole work."

Lord Cushendun was followed by Japanese Delegate Sato, who announced Tokio also had been studying the question of categories of warships, and was likely to make some proposals. He stressed Japan's welcome of the friendly spirit of the American declaration.

Count Massigli spoke for France.

He characterized Gibson's statement as one of conciliation and realization. He said the controversy as to the best method of naval limitation had gone on two years and had not been resolved. France always preferred the flexible method of combining total tonnage with tonnage by categories of warships. It was clear, he concluded, that the United States was now ready to find a solution and added that France was ready to facilitate progress.

Litvinoff's Proposal.
Maxim Litvinoff, the soviet spokesman, seized upon Gibson's recommendation to scrap the word "limitation" as applied to lessening of armament burdens as proving that the United States was supporting something previously launched by the Soviet delegation.

He criticised Lord Cunard for having stigmatized the Soviet proposal as not serious and as unworthy of the attention of the commission. He said he did not know whether the American had spoken in support of the Soviet proposal or against it, but what was important, he said, was that the principles necessary to work had been supported by a delegation of one of the leading Powers.

Litvinoff also maintained that Gibson had advocated the Soviet idea of applying principles of proportion in the reduction of naval strength because he had admitted that applying the same general principle to all the Powers would not infringe upon the principle of relativity.

MISSISSIPPI RISING AFTER HEAVY RAINS

Minor Overflow Expected at St. Louis With Highest Stage Expected Friday.

Heavy rains recently have had the effect of causing the Mississippi and some other rivers in the vicinity of St. Louis to rise and minor overflows are expected here and elsewhere.

So far this month, St. Louis has had 6.8 inches of rainfall, or almost twice the normal precipitation for all of April, which is 3.1 inches. There is an old saying, "Rain on Easter Sunday, rain on seven Sundays," which has no standing with the Weather Bureau. It rained here on Easter, March 21, and it has rained on the three succeeding Sundays.

The Mississippi is expected to reach a crest of 31.5 feet here next Friday, or 18 inches above flood stage. This will merely cover the levees and harpets, switching truck traffic. The Weather Bureau predicts the following crests in the vicinity: Grafton, Ill., 22 feet on Thursday; flood stage, 18; Alton, 24 feet on Friday; flood stage, 25; Chester, Ill., 30 feet on Saturday; flood stage, 27.

At Hannibal, Mo., this morning the Mississippi was at 21 feet, the high mark with two exceptions. This level floods part of the railroad yards and causes water to seep into many basements of the business district, although the streets are not inundated. The flood stage is 13 feet. In 1903 the mark there was 22.5 feet and in 1888 it was 21.8. Last month it reached 24.

The river began falling at Keokuk, Ia., last midnight and was at a level of 18.4 feet there this morning; flood stage being 14 feet. Canton, Mo., where a levee break yesterday flooded many homes, is a short distance downstream from Keokuk.

The lower Missouri River will overflow its banks. It is expected to reach flood stage, 21 feet, at Boonville, Mo., on Wednesday, 22 feet (one foot above flood stage) at Hermann, Mo., on Thursday, and 26.5 feet (18 inches above flood stage) at St. Charles Thursday night.

The Grand River is in characteristic early high flood and will reach a crest of 30.6 feet at Chillicothe, Mo., where flood stage is 18 feet tomorrow. The Illinois River has been in a minor flood for some time. The Osage River soon will be bankfull in Missouri. The Meramec and the Black are falling.

The main line of the Burlington Railroad, between Hannibal, Mo., and Keokuk, Ia., a distance of about 50 miles, was closed to traffic today, water overflowing from the Mississippi River, being several feet over the tracks in some sections. Trains were routed through Galesburg, Ill., instead of through Burlington. Officials think service will be restored tomorrow.

The annual high water inspection of the Mississippi River Commission, between St. Louis and New Orleans, began today. A public hearing will be held on the commission's statement, the Mississippi, before departure, and similar hearings are to be conducted at downstream cities.

Rain began here at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, lasting until midnight, and again between 9:30 and 11:45 a.m. yesterday, with a little early today. The total precipitation was 3.57 on the Weather Bureau gauge downtown, but it is likely that the downpour was heavier in the West End Saturday night.

Laborer Drowned When He Slips Into River des Peres.

A laborer, believed to be E. G. Hamilton of Detroit, was drowned at 4:30 a.m. yesterday while working on the River des Peres sewer construction in Forest Park, when he slipped on the muddy bank and was swept beneath the water of the river, swollen by heavy rains Saturday night. The body has not been recovered.

Fellow workmen, who witnessed the drowning, said Hamilton, weighted down by heavy clothing, was carried under the water before they could attempt a rescue. Hamilton was about 28 years old and was employed by the Guthrie Construction Co., which has a portion of the sewer contract.

Two Families Driven to Second Floor, Refuse to Leave.

Mounted District policemen carried a rowboat half a mile and hugged laboriously at a pair of ears for a distance of three blocks early yesterday with the intention of rescuing two families on Allemania avenue, in Southwest St. Louis, only to be rebuffed by the stranded persons, who declined the offer of a boat ride.

Receiving report that cries for help were heard on Allemania avenue and that flood water was 12 feet deep in the neighborhood, Lieut. Patrick Hussey and reserves from Mounted District started to the rescue at 2 a.m. The police borrowed boat, being forced to carry it half a mile to the flooded area. After rowing three blocks, the rescuers reached the 4600 block of Allemania avenue and found the two families living in the big house marooned in the second floors of their home. Frank Saverick and Frank Katica, representing their separate households, declined the offer of rescue, saying they were quite comfortable and had no fear of being washed away.

Fracture Hit in Revolving Door.

Henry Woods, 50 years old, a music teacher, of 4228 Olive street, suffered a fractured right hip at 10:30 o'clock last night when his leg became caught in a revolving door at a restaurant at 282 North Broadway. He is at City Hospital.

BIG CITIES REAL 'HICK' TOWNS, SAYS MRS. MCCRICK

Member of Congress Declares That Artistic Impetus Comes From Main Street.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Representative-at-large from Illinois, said yesterday that the real "hick" towns of the United States are the big cities, not those like her home, Byron, with a population of $600. The real artistic impetus of the American people, she pointed out, comes not from New York, Philadelphia or Chicago but from Main Street, and the small towns have developed more writers, opera and songwriters and entertainers than the great cities combined.

These observations were made by Mrs. McCormick in announcing the foundation of the Allied Arts Extension, which, she explained, is a co-operative movement, financed entirely by local communities for the exchange of ideas on painting, sculpture, handicraft and the allied arts. The organization is sponsored by the National Community Foundation.

"The great cities" said Mrs. McCormick, "have their art galleries and their museums, but only because some benefactor provides them. In the smaller towns there is a much more genuine and more general artistic development. The day is over when the concert company or road show from the big cities no matter how low-brow its program, could invade and capture the small town. People resent poor caliber programs and immediately ask: 'What is New York trying to put over on us?'

ASSOCIATED PRESS IN TRIBUTE TO LATE MELVILLE E. STONE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Associated Press, at its annual meeting today, paid tribute to Melville E. Stone, for many years general manager and counselor of the organisation, who died on Feb. 15.

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted in which he praised Mr. Stone's services and genius. It was resolved to send a steel engraving of Mr. Stone to all members of the association and to place a marble or bronze bust of him in the executive offices in this city.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Robert Dunlop, 23-year-old art student, formerly of Salt Lake City and Chicago, was killed yesterday by a bullet from his own revolver. Police said it was a suicide. Mrs. Margaret Dunlop, his mother, said it was an accident.

Dunlop was married two years ago while studying art in Chicago, but after a short time his wife, Marjorie, left him. Last Thursday she wrote him that she had obtained a divorce. Dunlop came to New York six months ago and had been living in Greenwich Village with his mother. His father, William H. Dunlop, is in the building and loan business in Salt Lake City.

GEN. URBALEJO AND 600

YAQUIS QUIT REBELS

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Skin will begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; known by them their olive color. Dr. Edwards' spent years among patients suffering with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take eight tablets a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c. Noce 60c.

"I SUFFERED 20
YEARS; KONJOLA MADE ME WELL"

In Six Weeks St. Louis Man
Was Restored to Health;
New Medicine Was First to Triumph.

One of the most remarkable preparations of Konjola, the new medicine, is the speed with which it brings results, and many men and women express astonishment over this, after trying other medicines and treatments month after month without the slightest result.

MR. H. C. HAMMACK.

Konjola does work quickly, for its 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs, go at once to the very cause of the trouble. All about this wondrous new medicine is being explained daily in the Konjola Man. He is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, St. Louis, daily, meeting those who have heard of the huge success of this super-remedy for ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and for nervousness. Life teaches us greater lesson than that we profit by the experiences of others. Learn then, how Konjola works, how it conquers when all other efforts for relief fail; how it brings health and happiness in place of pain and suffering. You can depend on Konjola for results. Here is a medicine that actually does things. Make up your mind to try it well. Give Konjola a chance just as did Mr. H. C. Hammack, 3747 North Broadway, this city. To the Konjola Man this happy man said a few days ago:

"I suffered for twenty years before finding this new medicine, Konjola, and in six weeks time it restored me to health. I had been suffering from a complication of ailments that included catarrh, kidney and liver trouble, nervousness and constipation. I was in a very weakened condition. Konjola immediately was subject to see headaches and extreme pains in my back. Due to starch there was a constant roaring and buzzing noise in my head. Poisonous mucus dripped into my throat and stomach, affecting my entire system. All energy and ambition left me and to do my work was drudgery. I tried many different medicines and treatments but was unable to find one that gave me more than temporary relief. It really was discouraging for me and I really had little hope."

"When I read of the many recoveries through Konjola I determined to give this new medicine a trial. Imagine my surprise when I began to notice an improvement; realized that, at last, I was on the road to glorious health. I did not miss a dose of Konjola and in six weeks time my nerves had been quieted and soothed. Sound and refreshed sleep was restored to me. My kidneys have been strengthened so that the pains are eliminated. Catarrh was quickly dried up and the poisons driven from my system. That tired, worn-out sensation vanished and I knew that my liver had been invigorated and regulated. But I am going right ahead with this wonderful medicine, for just around the corner is lasting, abundant health, the first in twenty years."

The file of Konjola fairly bulges with the names of those who, upon immediate action, Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients. It is all pure, wholesome, powerful medicine, every drop.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Commander Crosses Border
Douglas, Ariz. — Arrested
by U. S. Officials.

By the Associated Press.

NOGALES, Ariz., April 22.—Mexican revolutionary forces today were left without the support of Gen. Francisco Urbalejo, Yaqui Indian chieftain and his command, estimated at 600 to 1000 men.

Urbalejo, who led his warriors into Sonora from Chihuahua last week, avowedly to continue fighting for the rebel cause, appeared in Douglas, Ariz., yesterday. He proclaimed that he was through with the revolution and was held in custody of United States officials. His army evidently had scattered. Many of his soldiers were seen 30 miles south of Agua Prieta, moving toward the Yaqui reservation.

Some of the rebels in Nogales, Sonora, moved southward on troop trains yesterday. They evidently expected to battle with advancing Federals in Southern Sonora.

A contingent of 250 rebels left Nogales for Sasabe, little border town, where several of their comrades were killed and wounded in a battle last Friday.

Capt. Juan Fernandez, in charge of Sasabe's Federal cavalry, was reported to have moved into a canyon hoping to ambush the Nogales rebels. He had 125 soldiers.

The remaining 50 men also took up a position outside of Sasabe.

Urbalejo, who brought his Indians through Pulpito Pass from Chihuahua into Sonora, led them across the border to reinforce Gen. Ramon Yucipio in the Naco-Aqua Prieta sector, had been in Agua Prieta several days. His wife was waiting for him in Douglas, across the border from Agua Prieta.

Word reached Nogales today that Gen. Ramon F. Iturbe, original commander of the rebel advance against Mazatlan in the early days of the revolution, was in the military hospital in Hermosillo, suffering from gunshot wounds in his right leg and left arm.

Calles' Army of 10,000 Marching on Rebel Stronghold.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, April 22.—Ten thousand Federal soldiers under Gen. Calles forged northward to-day across the southern boundary of Sonora for what may be the last big battle of the revolution.

At Masiaca and San Antonio, Sonora, 50 miles north of the Federals' starting point, a rebel army of between 6000 and 7000 men was entrenched, apparently intending to contest the Federal advance.

Between Calles' main army and the rebel earthworks was Gen. Lamont, with 2500 Federal cavalry and news was expected here hourly today of the initial clash of the encounter.

DENOUNCES DEPOSED AFGHAN RULER, AMANULLAH, AS HERETIC

Habibullah, "Son of a Water Carrier," Says Veilless Queen Was "Naked."

By the Associated Press.

SIMLA, India, April 22.—Habibullah, otherwise known as Bacha Saakao, (son of a water carrier), styling himself ruler of Afghanistan, yesterday issued a manifesto denouncing Amanullah, whom he drove out of Kabul, as an unbeliever and a heretic. He specified 26 heretical acts of Amanullah, which included most of the latter's modern innovations. He declared that Queen Soraya had displayed herself "naked" (because she wore no veil) in a motor car and attacked Amanullah for shaving off his mustache against Koranic injunction.

Reviewing the history of his rebellion, Habibullah called upon provincial governors to send representatives to discuss the situation with him. He assured them that he had accepted the throne only to serve the cause of Islam but that if the people are inclined to favor Amanullah it nevertheless would be his duty to serve the faith and suppress the disloyal.

Amanullah, who now is leading a military drive in an attempt to regain his throne, issued a brief counter proclamation asking the people if they were content to be ruled by a monarch.

GEN. LORD BUDGET DIRECTOR, TO RETIRE BEFORE JUNE 30

Wishes to Return to Business World After Seven Years in Government Postion.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22.—Brigadier-General Herbert M. Lord, Director of the Budget, has decided to retire before the beginning of another year's labor. The Government fiscal year ends June 30.

At the request of President Hoover, Lord withheld his resignation when the new administration came in March 4, but he has informed the president of his desire to return to the business world after seven years as the director of the nation's financial program.

"Mr. Hoover is carrying the fight for a successor to Gen. Lord, but so far he has made no selection; nor has the Director determined which of several offers now before him he will accept.

Lord took over the direction of the newly organized Budget Bureau in 1922. He was the second Director, succeeding Charles G. Dawes, newly appointed Ambassador to Great Britain. Dawes was called to organize and head the bureau by the late President Harding.

BOSTON STORE CLERK ENGAGED TO HEIRESS

Former Amateur Golfer Wins Consent of J. J. Phelan to Wed Daughter.

BOSTON, April 22.—Although James J. Phelan, millionaire partner of the brokerage firm of Hornblower and Weeks, had said he would not have a golfer for a son-in-law, he has finally acceded to the selection of his daughter, Caroline, and announced her engagement to Joseph Norton of Albany, N. Y., former well-known amateur golfer. Young Norton, to prove that a golfer can also work, is a clerk in the Boston department store bargain basement, learning the business from the bottom up, and to use his words, "keeping his eye on the ball."

Joseph Norton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton of Albany. His father is a district manager for the F. W. Woolworth 5-and-10 cent stores in Northern New York. The youth went to Worcester Academy, not far from Boston, and made a name for himself as a

SEEKS SCHOLARSHIPS FOR DEAF CHILDREN

Central Institute to Dedicate
Addition to Its Quarters
June 19.

Central Institute for the Deaf, $18 South Kingshighway, which has raised more than $350,000 for the large addition to its establishment, now nearing completion, has issued a new and nation-wide appeal to its friends for endowments to create free scholarships for needy deaf children.

The new building, erected in front of the smaller and older structure and extending on Kingshighway from Papin street to Clayton avenue, will be dedicated June 19.

The scholarships which it is sought to establish cover instruction in the development of fluent, flexible speech, efficient lip-reading and general schooling, enabling the young deaf pupil to be on a parity with his fellows with normal hearing by the time he is of school age.

It has been found that the annual cost of a resident pupil cared for at the institute is $1250, including tuition, board and lodging, medical service, laundry and supervision. For each perpetual resident scholarship, therefore, an endowment of $25,000 is necessary. A perpetual day pupil scholarship for a school year at home in or near St. Louis requires an endowment of $10,000.

More than 150 children from 25 states are registered on the waiting list of Central Institute; their families are unable to furnish the necessary tuition fees. Many of the children are less than six years of age and cannot be entered in any other State or local residential or day school for the deaf.

Establishment of the Sophia Miller Scholarship, as a memorial to the mother of Stanley R. Miller of New York, a former St. Louisan, has been announced by Dr. Max A. Goldstein, director of the institute. This is a perpetual free resident pupil scholarship. Miller has sent his check for $1250 to the institute with the announcement that similar payment will be made on the second day of each year hereafter, and the further statement that his will provides a bequest of $25,000 to perpetuate this scholarship. Miller also gave $1000 for the establishment of a schoolroom to be dedicated to his mother.

The first resident scholarship received was given by Mrs. Max Adler of Chicago, and it has supported a Chicago child in the school for the last four years. It is known as the Sophie Adler Scholarship.

The Lucien B. and Katherine E. Price Scholarship, provided by the Price Foundation of Greenwich, Conn., is in its second year and is a resident pupil a girl from Indiana.

Mrs. William B. Itner of St. Louis, wife of the architect and a member of the board of managers of Central Institute, recently gave the Marie Itner Scholarship to a resident pupil.

Trustees of the Tilles Fund, St. Louis, have granted the institute for this year $2500 which takes care of four day-school pupils from St. Louis.

Of the pupils enrolled from St. Louis and St. Louis County during the present season, 27 day pupils and three resident pupils are registered on either full or part scholarships, and the expense of educating this group amounts to more than $12,000 per annum, of which $9000 has thus far been subscribed by friends and supporters of the school in annual subscriptions and donations.

Central Institute voluntarily withdrew from the Community Fund on Jan. 1, 1928, because its program and budget is of national character.

3 WHO FLED FROM ARKANSAS JAIL CAPTURED IN MISSOURI

Boy, 14, Held for Slaying Deputy Sheriff. Among Prisoners Returned to Jonesboro.

By the Associated Press.
JONESBORO, Ark., April 22.—Three prisoners who escaped from the County Jail here Wednesday night are back in their cells, following their capture without resistance near Steele, Mo., Friday. They include Rayford Ransome, 14 years old, alleged slayer of a Deputy Sheriff, and Pete Crider, 14, and Blackie Robinson, held on store robbery charges.

Capture of the three was effected by Sheriff Will Nash and four of Craighead County deputies who had taken refuge with a friend of Crider. Officers found the fugitives on the front porch with hands upraised. They were not armed, Sheriff Nash said.

The 14-year-old boy told officers he became tired of hiding out and had intended to surrender. They slept in the woods one day and traveled on foot two nights after escaping, the boy said. Ransome was taken back to jail immediately by two deputies, and Crider and Robinson were returned a short time later by Sheriff Nash after they decided to waive extradition.

GROUND SHIP'S HULL BROKEN

PARIS, April 22.—The French liner Paris, which was sent to dry dock for repairs when she docked at Havre after her two hours on the rocks at Eddystone Light in the English Channel last Wednesday, is expected to sail May 8 for New York.

Examination of the liner showed her hull was punctured both fore and aft on the seaboard side. The French Trans-Atlantic Co. blames for the accident and says any ship would have grounded under similar circumstances. Plymouth declares, is a particularly difficult port to negotiate, as it is not equipped with a radio station, which could have averted the accident.

FISHER ANNOUNCES

A Nation-wide

System of BODY SERVICE

Fisher Body announces the organization of a new unit, the Fisher Body Service Corporation, to provide a nation-wide system of body service to all owners of General Motors cars.

How vast and far-reaching will be the service rendered by this organization is indicated by the fact that there are today over 23,000 General Motors dealer's service stations throughout the United States.

The system inaugurated by the Fisher Body Service Corporation will be the first centralized, economic and truly efficient body service the industry has yet known. Such a service system is possible of course to General Motors alone, because Fisher Body, the source of bodies for all General Motors cars, is a corporate part of General Motors, which it supplies with bodies year after year—thus being certain always of this great permanent market.

Fisher Body Service makes available to every General Motors car owner everything he may require in the way of body maintenance and rehabilitation, and will enable him to obtain complete service—service for car body as well as car chassis—from one source, his car dealer. Such service as the elimination of body annoyances, the adjusting of tie-down bolts, the periodical dressing of the roof, the lubrication of door lock bolts, door checks and hinges, the cleansing of soiled upholsteries, the bumping of fenders or panels, will now be performed in your dealer's service department.

General Motors Spring Showing, April 20th to 27th. Be sure to visit a General Motors Showroom during this week.

Capt. Malcolm Campbell Fails to Equal Mark of Maj. Segrave, Another Briton.

By the Associated Press

VERNEUK PAN, Care of Good Hope, April 22.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British automobile racer, yesterday failed in two runs over a measured mile course here to lower the world's speed record of 231 miles per hour, held by

Maj. Segrave, another Briton. In his first run over the course with a dying wind at his back, Campbell attained a speed of 224.55 miles, and when the wind had delayed his attempt for several hours, sprang up again, he made only $12.51 on the return trip, for an average of 218.54 for both runs.

While not attributing his failure to defective track conditions, Campbell intimated that this might have been the case when he said that he would make no further attempt on the world's record until bad stretches on the course had been removed.

Campbell said that two severe bumps during the drive had strained his back and given him a headache.

INCENDIARISM IN THEATER

Two Men Fire Organ in Chicago House, Intimidate Porter.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 22.—Two men held a Negro porter at bay early yesterday while they attempted to set fire to the Adams Theater, a moving picture house in the loop district. They poured kerosene on the organ, touched a match to it and fled. Firemen extinguished the flames without anything but the organ was destroyed.

Police reported a controversy between the manager, M. O. Wells, and James C. Petillo, president of the musicians' union over employment of an organist, but Petillo denied his organization had anything to do with the fire.

ROBBERS BREAK OPEN SIX SAFES AND TAKE $2200

Firm Loses Fountain Pens Valued at $750—Combination Pounded Off at Creamery, $1864 Gone.

Eight safe robberies and attempted robberies were reported over the week-end, the total loot being $2200 in money and $750 worth of fountain pens.

A policeman who discovered a back door open at the Vicor Creamery Co., 3905 West Florissant avenue, at 5:30 a.m. today, investigated and found the combination of a safe had been tampered with and open and $1864 in receipts stolen.

At the Shallcross Printing & Stationery Co., 1824-26 Locust street, burglars hammered open a safe and stole $150 cash and a stock of fountain pens valued at $750.

Burglars went to great trouble to obtain nothing at the Moench Motor Co., 3137 Locust street. Lifting a minute cover in the aisle, they slid through a coal chute to the boiler room. Going upstairs to the office, they hammered in vain at the combination of a safe, then removed a hinge, but still couldn't open the safe. Next they attempted to force open a desk, but failed. They quit without loot, although the safe contained $200 and the desk $50.

At the Hyde Park Brewery, 1440 North Eighteenth street, burglars took $6.95 from a safe and helped themselves to 21 cans of malt and barley. Safes were forced open, but nothing obtained, at the Gerst Manufacturing Co., 800 Case avenue, and the Kingshighway Feed Co., 3208 South Kingshighway.

A safe at the Fox Film Corporation, 3314 Olive street, was badly battered by robbers who failed to open it.

Thomas McGee, attendant at a filling station at 4710 Washington boulevard, was opening the safe when two robbers walked in and compelled him to hand over $180.37.

Harry Bishop, 944 Maple place, walking in the 3700 block of Elm street, was robbed of $75 and a watch by the consumer who made off with a pistol.

Christ Johnson, 554 Limit avenue, left an employee in charge of his restaurant at 4200 Delmar boulevard yesterday noon. When Johnson returned he found the restaurant closed with the employee and $225 in receipts missing, according to Johnson's report to police.

SAYS PROPAGANDA IS USED TO DEFEAT TARIFF INCREASE

Colorado Congressman Cites Case of U. S. Investments in Cuban Sugar.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGON, April 22.—A declaration that propaganda was being circulated in an attempt to defeat the higher duties asked by the public believe that proposed tariff increases must be defeated by the consumer was made in a statement today by Representative Timberlake (Rep.), Colorado, a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

He said an example of what he meant was the "attempt under way to defeat the higher duties asked by the American sugar beet and sugar cane farmer." Timberlake places placing a limit of 500,000 tons on the annual importation of duty free sugar from the Philippine Islands.

"The public should be made aware of the far-reaching consequences," he said. "If these attacks succeed, the sugar beet and sugar cane farmer will be forced to buy sugar from Cuba and the Philippines. It is well known," he said, "that Wall street has a billion dollars invested in Cuban sugar. Under the Island's tariff-favored position in the American market, Wall street found it more attractive to invest in the Islands rather than in the United States. Without American capital, energy and leadership Cuba never would have increased its sugar output to the point where its over-production threatens ruin for the American sugar industry."

TWO MEN KILLEDIN PISTOL FIGHT

Wife of One Seriously Hurt in Unexplained Shooting at Atlanta.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 22.—Police today searched futilely for the motive of the shooting in a dimly lighted hallway here Saturday night that resulted in the death of two men and the serious wounding of a woman.

Authorities, however, said they were convinced that Leslie Lohden, 24-year-old escaped convict from Alabama, and S. E. "Smitty" Hayes, participants in the shooting fatal to both, shot it out because of an old feud connected either with liquor or narcotic traffic.

Mrs. Hayes was in a serious condition at hospital from a bullet wound through the abdomen, inflicted, she said, by Lohden when she went into the hallway to investigate sounds of a struggle.

Mrs. Hayes told police that she answered her doorbell Saturday night to be confronted by Lohden who asked to see her husband, and in response to her inquiry as to his name, replied:

"Aw, you wouldn't know if I told you—lemon see Smitty."

Her husband then went to the door and scarcely had he reached it before sounds of a struggle and the report of a pistol shot came from the hall, the wounded woman told officers. As she entered the hall, she said, her husband's assailant fired at her. As she crawled back into the living room a fusillade of shots rang out.

Police found Lohden dead in the hall, a pistol with five empty cartridges in the cylinder in his hand, and in the living room found Hayes, his pistol still in his hand. Four empty cartridges were in the weapon.

Lohden, who was serving a 20-year sentence for robbery in Kilby Prison, near Montgomery, escaped a few days ago by concealing himself in a laundry basket which was carried outside the walls. Police here were on the lookout for him. It was Lohden's second escape.

FOURTH OF U. S. PEOPLE TO USE DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

On the Whole the Movement Is More Widespread This Year Than at Any Previous Time.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Daylight saving time will be used by more than one-fourth of the country's population this year.

Many towns which adopted it last year have announced their intention of discarding it in 1929, but on the whole the movement is made widespread this spring than at any time.

Just a few weeks ago the State of New York passed a law making daylight saving time mandatory. Massachusetts and Rhode Island have similar laws.

In New York, daylight saving will be in effect this year from 2 a. m. April 23 to 2 a. m. Sept. 29.

While the Connecticut Legislature has decreed that it is an offense to show any other time but Eastern standard on public clocks, 33 Connecticut cities and villages, banks, offices, stores and factories have decided to continue the observance of daylight saving time.

The majority of states leave the use of daylight saving time to the opinion of individual communities. This is the manner in which the problem is met in New Jersey, although virtually every town in the State will adopt it this year.

Two cities in Vermont, several in Delaware, nine in Illinois, six in Indiana, three in Maine and 10 in Pennsylvania will establish daylight saving time.

Miles Wins Boston Marathon Again

Johnny Miles of Hamilton, Ont., crossing the finish line first in the Boston Marathon. It was his second victory in four years. His time for the 26 miles, 38 yards was 2 hours, 33 minutes, 84-5 seconds, almost four minutes faster than the time of Clarence De Mar, last year's winner.

PYLE DERBY TO REACH ST. LOUIS NEXT WEDNESDAY

C. C. Pyle, who is conducting his second annual transcontinental marathon run, will reach St. Louis tonight in advance of his little caravan which is now trudging along the National Old Trails, with the day's control point at Vandalia, Ill.

Pyle called the Post-Dispatch by long distance with the information that tomorrow's control point would be Collinsville, Ill., and that Wednesday's night stop would be at Maplewood, Mo.

"We still have more than 20 athletes in the running, and they are all of the best quality," Pyle said. "They are averaging about seven and a half miles an hour for the entire journey, and that is better than last year's grand average."

"Among the good ones surviving the test is Pat Harrison, who makes St. Louis his home. Pat is now about twelfth or thirteenth in the parade, and in splendid condition. I think he will be one of those close to the front when we reach Los Angeles. He was among those who finished the race last year."

"This year it's different," Howley told the Post-Dispatch. "Just before the season began we received a bulletin from President Barnard ordering us to observe the balk rule strictly. It pointed out that pitchers were sliding from their preliminary motion right into the windup, without a pause and that this was illegal."

"I expect to have Jim Thorpe with us when we come through St. Louis. Jim will act as master of ceremonies. He left Marion, O., today to join us, and will probably connect with the hikers at Vandalia tonight."

"Everything is going well with the expedition, despite annoyances now and then, but we will finish the race in Los Angeles as scheduled, and will probably make better time than we did last year, although we started out over a harder route."

TRACK STARS TO VIE FOR HONORS IN TWO MEETS THIS WEEK-END

BRACEY AND ELDER IN DRAKE RELAYS, SIMPSON TO RUN AT PENN CARNIVAL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—For competitive purposes it is unfortunate that the sprinters and pole vaulters featured in the Drake and Pennsylvania relay carnivals this week cannot be tossed into one and the same arena next Friday and Saturday.

Drake has Claude Bracey, the Texas standout, and Jack Elder, of Notre Dame, expected to furnish the best sprints. Pennsylvania has George Simpson of Ohio State to give the Eastern and Southern talent a run for its day's exercise. These three stars, with Charley Borah of Southern California, just about comprise the present "Big Four" of the college sprint crop. All have flirted with world's records time or actually beaten it under such favorable conditions as Bracey enjoyed recently in Texas.

Only three pole vaulters in history have cleared 34 feet under any conditions yet there are at least half dozen college vaulters now threatening to clear that height any time out.

Some Star Pole Vaulters.

Fred Sturdy of Yale, one of the trio, who has done it, encounters Vic Pickard of Canada and Pittsburgh, who has done 13-10, in the Penn carnival.

Tommy Warne of Northwestern, and Henry Canby of Iowa, each of whom has bettered 13-7 in competition, will renew their rivalry at Drake. Warne has barely missed 14 feet several times.

On the Pacific coast, William of Southern California, has cleared 13-10 in competition this spring while Edmonds of Stanford ordinarily is good for 13-6.

Missing from the college whirr this year are the other two athletes who have hopped over the bar at 14 feet or better—Sabin Carr, the former Yale star who holds the official outdoor and indoor marks of 14 feet and 14.1, respectively, and Lee Barnes, formerly of Southern California, whose vault of 14.1% was never officially approved.

Hard to Discourage.
The old-timers are hard to discourage. There is Charles "Mile-a-Minute" Murphy, the old cyclist, who claims to have wheeled the fastest mile in 57.45 seconds. Although now nearing 60 years of

SARAZEN THINKS HE WILL WIN IN BRITISH "OPEN"

By Johnny Farrell.

American Open Golf Champion.
(Copyright, 1929.)

SANDWICH, England, April 22.—Gene Sarazen, as usual, is my special pal among the American Golf Expeditions Forces now in this country for the Ryder Cup match and the British Open in England, with much important play scheduled later in both Germany and France.

The other members of the Ryder Cup squad, together with Tommy Armour and Bill Melhorn, constitute as companionable a crowd as one could find in or out of the nineteen-hole golf representing the most notable phases of golfdom.

Gene Sarazen is aggressively optimistic and confident. We were discussing recently an article in an English golf magazine which scouted our chances against the strong team George Duncan has assembled.

"Somebody's giving them a word tonic," scoffed Sarazen. "We'll take them as easy as I'll take that British open cup."

Was Second Last Year.
I laughed at Gene's simile, that so well reveals the militant state of his mind.

Walter Hagen has often said that if you don't win you might as well be tenth or last. The glory is only to the victor. Comparatively few of those who remember that Sarazen finished second to the Haig last year in the British championship. Gene looked like the winner until the last few holes when the Haig, with a characteristic flourish, came along to grab first honors and the cheers.

Sarazen had been told that he wouldn't be able to content successfully in a strange land and against those baa-boo winds that are supposed ever to be destroying a man's golf game. For his own satisfaction at least, Gene dispelled any misgivings on the score of the Others Are in the Hunt.

"It was so close last year that it wasn't any fun losing," Gene said. "I don't like the idea of running second and you know Hagen can't win all the time. This should be my year."

Which was another way Gene had of saying that the only man he has to beat is Sir Walter. Well, I have an idea that I might win myself, and I know that the quiet, potent Horton Smith is not with me. I am not one to forget the three Americans—Scotchmen who have entered with but no other purpose than to win. Mac Smits, Bob Crickshank and Tommy Armer—all masters of the pitch and putt—will be there and all "hot" too, if I read the stars rightly. Jim Barnes has been in his native land

Baseball Races Somewhat Off Line With Braves and Crippled Macks Leading

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Politics may make strange bedfellows but baseball is the room clerk who locks them in and throws the key away. We were told, for example, that the Philadelphia Athletics were ready for the scrubwoman. They are at the top of the American League standing today. We were further informed that the Washington Senators were ready to run wild with a lot of early speed. They are at the bottom. And, doctor, save my pulse! The Boston Braves, who were supposed to be ready for the department of street cleaning, are leading the National League with a percentage of 100.

The Braves, of course, simply got a break on the schedule. Bad as they may be, they were matched at the outset with the one club which may be worse, the Brooklyn Dodgers. The latter wins the unfeeling stepdaddy, having blown five games in as many starts to the Braves and Phillips. This ordinance is hard to do but not for the Dodgers. They have the copy-right.

Real Form Acrobats.
The Athletics are the real form-acrobats of the two races to date. Deprived of Simmons and Boley and coupled with the Senators and Athletics for their first two series, the situation was not exactly second and Mr. Mack had all he could do to lift his bosom over and above his vest pocket. Whereupon, the Athletics took two straight from the Senators, won with 38 points and Benton third with 32. Other point winners were: West Frankfort 22, Murphysboro 16, Clinton City 11, Carbondale 7, Bendl 8, Christopher 2, Carterville 6, Flora 6, Hurst-Bush 2 and Sparta 1.

The Yankees, therefore, might well have been without a single victory today. Of course, they boat the Red Sox in the season's opener but, provided they mean to be technical and competitive, that one is at that, the Senators could do no better than an even break with the Sox, which indicates that all of that training camp speed can run for Mr. Sweeney, the eminent fishmonger. The Indians are up there with the Athletics but they will be excused presently.

HERRIN, ILL., WITH 46 POINTS, VICTOR IN ANNUAL MEET

HARRISBURG, Ill., April 22.—In the annual Herrin relays yesterday, the Herrin squad won with 46 points, Harrisburg was second with 38 points and Benton third with 32. Other point winners were: West Frankfort 22, Murphysboro 16, Clinton City 11, Carbondale 7, Bendl 8, Christopher 2, Carterville 6, Flora 6, Hurst-Bush 2 and Sparta 1.

The Big Seven meet will be held at Harrisburg May 4, and the Southern Illinois meet here May 11. The finals in the Illinois State contest will be at Champaign May 18.

Summary for the Herrin meet follows:

FORMER CHAMPIONS TO SEE ACTION IN BOXING BOUTS, THIS WEEK

K. O. CHRISTNER SCHEDULED FOR CONTEST WITH JACK M'AUILLIE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—A glance over the national boxing schedule for this week brings back to mind that Jack Britton and Johnny Dundee, whose combined age totals 78 years, still are going strong.

Britton, at 43, has been in the ring since 1904. He lost his world's welterweight title some years ago, but still is able to outpoint men half his age. His opponent this week is Red Herring, Utica (N. Y.) welterweight. They will meet in a 10-round match at Memphis tonight.

Dundee, who in his 17 years of fistic activity has held the featherweight and junior lightweight championships, also jumps into action tonight, facing Eddie Kid Wolfe of Memphis, in a 10-round bout at New Orleans. Dundee, now 35 years old, has lost virtually all of his old-time speed, but still is a fair match—and sometimes more than a match—for younger foes.

Another ex-champion, Tony Canzoneri, is the ace in the deck at Madison Square Garden this week. Although only 23, Canzoneri has won and lost the featherweight title. He has been doing much of his recent battling with junior lightweights and, he meets one of the best in that class at the Garden on Friday night—Stanley Duncan, clever Fast Slider.

Kit Chocolate, the Cuban sensation, still unbeknownst, should have much difficulty with Vic Burone of New York in a 10-round at the St. Nicholas Arena here, tonight. The "Keed" won his last bout, against Bushy Graham, on a foul after taking a somewhat artful lacing for six rounds.

George Courtney, the Oklahoma cowboy, takes another step in his campaign for the light heavyweight championship, in Philadelphia, tonight, against Tom Kirby of Boston, whose specialty is an extremely irritating left jab.

On the Pacific Coast, Young Corbett, the welterweight contender, and Musky Callahan, junior welterweight champion, are the principal box office cards. Corbett meets Paul Myers at San Francisco, tonight. Callahan may find Spud Myers of Focatello a trifling hard to handle at Los Angeles, tomorrow night.

Other bouts on the national card include:

Tuesday—At Chicago, Clyde Chastain, Texas, vs. Bobby Tracy, Buffalo, welters, 10 rounds.

Wednesday—At Clinton, O. K. O. Christner, Akron, vs. Jack Mc'Auliffe, Detroit, heavyweights, 10 rounds.

Thursday—At Cincinnati, Jimmy Mahoney, Chicago, vs. Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., middleweights, 10 rounds.

Friday—At Boston, Bob Mills, Franklin, N. H., vs. Larry Rawson, Boston, heavyweights, 10 rounds; at New York, Joey Lahey, New York, vs. Izzy Grove, New York, welters, 10 rounds; Earl Marion, Chicago, vs. Terry Roth, New York, featherweights, 10 rounds.

Two bouts at same time.

The five Oklahomans at William Whaley, welterweight; Ralph Uffranga, lightweight; Clay Bond, featherweight; Glen Mute, bantamweight, and Madero Vallarreal, flyweight.

The tournament will be conducted in Chicago's new million-dollar sports stadium. The elimination bouts in the early rounds will be conducted in two rings, simultaneously, it is reported, so spectators may see two bouts at the same time.

Furman, St. Louis, Finishes Fourth In Diving Event

CHICAGO, April 22.—Coming back to score heavily on his optional dives, after having made only a average score on his required dives, Adolf Furman of St. Louis won fourth place in the fancy diving competition in the finals of the seventh international Y. M. C. A. swimming championships here.

Local players, of course, had the advantage of having only one game to concentrate on. While the foreign champion, in the middle of a hollow square of chessboards, had to keep moving, each opponent could figure it out while Dr. Alekhine was completing the round of the other 25. That is, each opponent could try to figure it out.

Anderson and L. G. Stockwell combined against Dr. Alekhine Saturday afternoon in a consultation game. The world's champion took a slight advantage with the initial moves, and played it with such sure aggressiveness that in three hours Anderson resigned on the thirty-sixth move on behalf of himself and Stockwell.

ST. LOUIS BOXERS DEPART FOR U. S. AMATEUR MEET

By Damon Kerby

Carrying the hopes and fears of amateur boxing fans in general, and President Robert Probst of the Western A. A. U. in particular, five St. Louis amateur boxers, all untried in national competition, departed at noon today for the National A. A. U. junior boxing tournament at Chicago, which starts tomorrow.

For the past three seasons the Cubs have lost the pennant in the East.

Despite inclement weather, the Cubs have made a running start toward a new National League attendance mark for Wrigley Field. In four games they have attracted 116,000 fans. Yesterday and on the opening day they drew a full park of 50,000.

CANZONERI PLANS BUSY RING CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, April 22.—Tony Canzoneri's bout with Sammy Dorfman here on Friday night will be the beginning of the ambitious ring campaign for the Brooklyn Italian. If he defeats Dorfman, Canzoneri expects to meet Andre Routis, featherweight champion, in a non-title bout in Chicago in the near future. Canzoneri formerly held the title.

After fighting the Frenchman, Canzoneri hopes to get a crack at Tod Morgan of Seattle, king of the junior lightweights. This bout may be held in June.

To fill some of the vacancies on the team, five boys from Oklahoma, winners of amateur tournaments in their home State, were added to the Western A. A. U. squad. They are going direct from Oklahoma to the tournament, and the heads of the Western A. A. U. will not get their first glimpse of their district representatives until weighing in time tomorrow afternoon.

OKLAHOMA MAT ACE STARRED IN NATIONAL MEET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Grapplers from the Middle West took away the lion's share of the honors at the National A. A. U. wrestling championships, concluded at the New York A. C. last week.

Of the eight titles, no less than five went to Middle Western entries; two to the East and one to the Far West.

It remained for two Oklahoma grapplers, George Campbell of Sand Springs and Arlie Tomlinson of Okemah, A. and M. to furnish the highlights of the two-day tournament.

Tomlinson wrestled his way to the 147-pound championship by defeating all four of his opponents by falls. Campbell, an entrant in both the 118 and 126-pound classes, was forced to compete in five bouts on the final day and wound up with a third place in the 118-pound division and the championship in the 126-pound class.

George Retains Honors.

Ed George, big University of Michigan star, Big Ten champion, the only defending champion entered, had no difficulty retaining the heavyweight title. The 180-pound crown went to Thomas McCrory of Cornell College, Iowa, while Kaare Krogh, University of Chicago, gave the Mid West its fifth title in the 175-pound division.

The East's two winners were John Eareckson of Baltimore in the 155-pound class, and George Hoepfner of Lehigh in the 112-pound realm.

The eighth title, 160-pound, went to Ben Sherman of Portland, Ore.

Second and third places went to the following:

112 pounds—Second, Irving Levine, New York. No third place in this entry.

118 pounds—Second, Uno Nononen, Boston; third, George Campbell, Sand Springs, Ok.

126 pounds—Second, Lyle Morford, Cornell College, Ia.; third, Mac Rapoport, Boston.

135 pounds—Second, Robert M. Brick, Lehigh; third, Sherwood Hawke, University of Idaho.

147 pounds—Second, Ed Marden, Brooklyn, Mass.; third, George Hadrells, New York.

160 pounds—Second, Al Cornsweet, Brown; third, Charles Hubbard, New York.

175 pounds—Second, Fred Marcal, Portland, Ore.; third, Theodore K. Doumazus, New York.

In the meantime, the big guessing match of May 18 has been made still more of a guess.

Bill Tilden Comes Back

WITEWASHED again, William T. Tilden, one of the outstanding figures in all tennis history, will be back in the spotlight again this season.

Apologetic coughs from behind the hand will emanate from Bill's detractors, but his presence in the front rank of amateurs will be welcome to the purveyors of news. "Bill is a

With Francis Hunter, Tilden is going abroad to tune up for the Davis Cup preliminaries. The fact of the matter is that we had hedged too close to the amateur line, we would be represented in the Davis Cup play of 1929 by a squad of colorless, innocuous second raters.

He would be better if Tilden and Hunter were really out of the Davis Cup picture. That would hasten the development of young players, so badly needed today. So long as Tilden was around the public would not be shown.

How Great Was Bill?

FOLLOWERS of tennis are divided as to whether America's Davis Cup backslid in recent years has been due to the decline of Tilden or to the superior playing of the French team.

That, in my opinion, is a matter of individual opinion. Nonetheless it is evident that no player in recent history has dominated tennis as Tilden did, in his prime, when he swept all before him and turned some truly wonderful feats.

It is the writer's belief that Tilden in his prime would have outmatched any singles player in history, not excepting the red-headed "Comet" of the Far West. McLoughlin. Just how good McLoughlin was in 1913 and 1914 when he was in his prime, can not be judged from this distance. We know that he had weak points, especially in his ground strokes—his critics tell us that. And yet we have a vivid picture in the records of 1914, the year in which Australia wrested the crown from America, at New York, just the great war was starting.

McLoughlin's Great Feat

THE records show that McLoughlin defeated two of greatest tennis players in the singles, the late Anthony Wilding, a giant with power and science to back game, and Norman Brookes, crafty left-hander, a master court tactics and tennis science. It took everything "Red" had to beat Brookes the first set, who went to winning like 22 games, but in winning the match, he broke the morale of Brookes won the match.

Yet this same year, Dick Tilden, who never has conceded a place with Tilden ever, McLoughlin, won the national championship from him. Until Tilden began to do nobodies ever downed Bill in a match for an important year.

Callahan Signs 5-Year Contract With Jack Kearns

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 22.—Jack Kearns, erstwhile manager of Jack Dempsey, and now piloting Mickey Walker, middleweight king, has taken another ring champion under his management wing.

Mushy Callahan, holder of the junior welterweight title, has signed a five-year contract with Kearns. For several months he had been a free lance, arranging his own matches. He broke with Eddie Sears of Los Angeles late last year, but was forced to wait until February for their contract to expire.

Under Kearns' guidance, Callahan, now 22 years old, believes he is on the road to success chapter in his boxing career. The junior welterweight champion came close to quitting the game and relinquishing his title after his break with Sears, but decided to try a comeback. He has scored three knockouts in four comeback starts.

Callahan figures on having Callahan boxing for the welterweight title before the end of the year.

Callahan won the junior welterweight title from Pinkey Mitchell here in 1928.

Indiana Leads in Big Ten Baseball

CHICAGO, April 22.—Indiana and Purdue today stood out as a twin menace to Michigan's superiority in Big Ten baseball.

With the first series of games of the 1929 championship race in the score books, the Hoosiers had an edge in the struggle with three straight victories, while the heavy hitting Boilermakers had two.

Michigan, winner of the 1928 title, also rested in the undefeated column, having won its only game against Northwestern.

One upset was registered in the three-game card Saturday as Northwestern, a twice-defeated team triumphed over Illinois, 3 to 1, at Urbana. It was Northwestern's first victory over the Illini on the diamond since 1915.

Indiana scored its third victory Saturday by defeating Chicago, 3 to 2, while Purdue, at Ohio State's third defeat, 9 to 4. The Michigan-Iowa game, scheduled for Saturday, was rained out.

BABE RUTH SAYS:

Red Sox Are an Improved Ball Club and Should Quit Cellar—Chicago and Cleveland Have Good Pitchers.

NEW YORK, April 22.

WHEN you start talking about improved clubs in the American League this year don't overlook the Boston Red Sox. My old friend Bill Carrigan has got a mighty fine outfit of youngsters this year, and a team that will make plenty of trouble now and the end of the season next October.

Not a pennant winner, of course. It takes a long time to build up a pennant winner or even a contender. But not a tallent, either, if I'm any judge. And getting out of the cellar will be a moral victory for the Boston fans who haven't had much to shout about since the war.

Deal With Senators Helped.

Two things have helped make the Red Sox a real team this year. One is that deal with Washington. By letting Buddy Myers go, Bill got himself a couple of infielders and a couple of pitchers in return.

I think that there are two big things figured in the Boston improvement this season. One was the trade with the Senators. The other is Bill Carrigan's pepper and played with him and for him and one thing about him I know.

With Bill, a player either plays ball for all he has, or he gets out.

There's no half way stuff about it.

Early Games Don't Tell Story.

The early games of the season, of course, don't give any real line on the race. Pitching all over the league is likely to be a bit uncertain at first, and the batters are always way ahead of the pitchers.

But even in the first week of play it's possible to pick out the strong and weak spots generally—and thus far they've all run about as we figured.

The Yankees and Athletics look to have the one and two slots pretty well cared for.

The Washington Senators are much improved as they showed in spring training and the Browns are showing the very thing we looked for—tight, plus good pitching, plus the will to win.

Personally, there's no town and no manager in the league I'd rather see do well than Boston's Bill Carrigan. I've got a lot of friends up there. The town was good to me, and I'd like to see them get the sort of club they want and deserve. And there's no finer man than Bill Carrigan.

I think that there are two big things figured in the Boston improvement this season. One was the trade with the Senators. The other is Bill Carrigan's pepper and played with him and for him and one thing about him I know.

ALL LIQUOR CHARGES JONESLAW CASES IN WISCONSIN

U. S. Attorney at Milwaukee Ignores Willebrandt's Order; Calls Law Inconsistent.

MILWAUKEE, April 22.—Levi H. Bancroft, United States District Attorney for Eastern Wisconsin announced today "all cases in this district will be Jones' law cases and all will go to the grand jury" despite the recent order of Mrs. Mabel Walker, Willebrandt, that the Jones law be applied only when cases savor of "extreme commercialism."

"I am not going to open myself to criticism by trying to prove the prohibition department by different methods felonies and misdemeanors," Attorney Bancroft said.

Under the Jones law all cases of sale, manufacture, transportation, export or import of liquor are felonies, he said, but no provision is made for possession of liquor or maintaining a nuisance which still under the Volstead act are misdemeanors. Calling the law "inconsistent" the District Attorney said that "in order to prove a misdemeanor, ordinarily it would be necessary first to prove a felony in order to obtain a conviction and therefore he would not differentiate." Let the grand jury do the deciding in all cases," he said.

Gibson Asks Powers to Act
In Light of Kellogg Pact
At Disarmament SessionIf That Treaty Means Anything, He Declares,
There Is No Reason to Continue
"War-Taxed Peace."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The text of the address delivered this morning at the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference by Hugh S. Gibson, the American delegate, as made public by the State Department:

"Mr. Chairman: I have sought your permission to make a general statement of the views of my Government in regard to the question of disarmament and have been warranted in doing so at this stage of the proceedings because, while we have not entered upon a second reading of the draft convention, we are bringing up for reconsideration various questions which have been previously discussed. It is felt, therefore, that in view of certain changed conditions it may facilitate the approach to these questions if I am permitted to take this occasion for stating my Government's views as to the means best calculated to promote an early agreement."

Time for Concessions.

"Since our last meeting, the nations of the world have bound themselves by solemn undertaking to renounce war as an instrument of national policy. We believe—and we hope that our belief is shared by the other nations—that this agreement affirming humanity's will to peace will advance the cause of disarmament by removing doubts and fears which in the past have constituted our principal obstacle. It has recently been my privilege to discuss the general problem of disarmament at considerable length with President Hoover, who has always been an ardent advocate of peace and good understanding. I am in a position to realize, perhaps as well as anyone, how earnestly he feels that the pact for the renunciation of war opens to us an unprecedented opportunity for advancing the cause of disarmament, an opportunity which admits of no postponement.

"Any approach to the disarmament problem on purely technical grounds is bound to be inconclusive. The technical justification of armaments is based upon the experience of past wars and upon the anticipation of future wars. So long as the approach to the problem is based upon old fears and old suspicions, there is little hope of disarmament. The lessons of the old strategy must be learned, and the new methods of impossible conditions demanded by one of the principal delegations.

"Schacht came back to Paris, it was said, on convincing the other nations' delegates that Germany cannot pay their bill, or worse than it, until its earning power is increased.

"Dr. Schacht and Dr. Voegler arrived in Paris this afternoon after a week of consultations in Berlin. Shortly afterward they entered a conference with the United States delegation, Owen D. Young, James Lamont and Thomas Nastick at the Hotel George V. Dr. Schacht was closeted with American experts for an hour and a half and then conferred with Emil Moreau, Governor of the Bank of France, lead French expert on the Reparations Committee.

Willing to Go Farther.

"Herr Schacht said to his interviewers: "I leave with the feeling that in Paris I shall yet succeed in convincing even the most recalcitrant of the Thoreys that our capacity to pay is not greater than I had and that Germany's capacity to increase only if its ability to increase is increased."

"In the opening statement at the Three-Power naval conference in 1927 I took occasion, in suggesting certain tonnage levels as a basis of discussion, to say that the United States was prepared to agree to a plan for limitation of naval tonnage, lower levels which maintain the relative status of existing treaties with respect to the powers represented at that conference. This is still the basic principle of our unmodified thesis, my Government has sought in the various methods presented some solution which might offer the possibility of compromise and general acceptance. During the third session of the preparatory commission, the French delegation brought forward a method which was an attempt to combine its original total tonnage proposals with those of the British and American delegations. It is agreed upon, such increase to be transferred from any other category or categories not already fixed by existing treaty.

At Niigata, in Western Honshu, eight persons were killed and 80 injured. It is impossible as yet to estimate the loss of life at sea, where many fishing boats are still missing.

Leans Toward French Proposal.

"The American delegation has urged this view throughout the first reading, but, in view of the inacceptability to some other delegations of our unmodified thesis, my Government has sought in the various methods presented some solution which might offer the possibility of compromise and general acceptance. I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles that will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate corruption or corruption, always fight the demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Tiff-Mining Conditions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
HAVING read two or three letters of recent date in the Post-Dispatch concerning tiff mining in Washington County and being a former citizen of that county, I very naturally became interested in this matter. So I thought I would get the truth concerning the condition of the tiff miners. I visited a number of tiff miners both in the mines and in their homes, if homes they can be called.

Shack would be a better name. Little three-room buildings built of unresisted oak lumber, roofed with sheet iron, very few windows, the buildings standing from the ground and a hand or two feet above the ground. There is little protection against the cold winds of winter and the iron roofing makes it uncomfortable in summer.

I talked with a very intelligent miner near Potosi and learned that the price of tiff is $4.50 per ton net. At that price the average earnings of these miners is less than $1 per day, due to the fact that the mines are nearly exhausted. The miners pay no rent, but how could they? Your staff correspondent's story about tiff mining was not wrong. The condition of those miners is appalling.

Buses and Street Paving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A. M. CAIRNS is certainly right about the condition of the streets of St. Louis. As long as buses are permitted to rumble along on solid tires the streets over which they operate will be in poor condition. The street car company must maintain their tracks. Why not compel the bus line to maintain theirs?

Another thing—either the gas company or Sewer Department in the past few months had some reason to tear up strips of pavement, and when they repaired it, it was done with brick or sand and gravel, thus making a nice spring-breaking bump for automobiles. Why isn't it that good business and politics won't mix, or will they? J. B. CLUCK.

Abacus and Turk's Head.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I RECENTLY had occasion to purchase an abacus to embellish my infant daughter's crib. I set forth on an expedition of the toy department and was astonished to find that the employee was familiar with the term—almost the first word in the dictionary. Finally, by drawing a rough sketch I was able to locate one, and was told "We call them counting trays."

Some days later another trip to a department store developed a similar situation. This time a "Turk's head" was sought. Perplexed, several saleswomen gathered around me, and as each one was called into the conference she was asked. "Did you ever hear of a Turk's head?" I was again astonished that women who are "at home" in matters culinary, should be unfamiliar with this necessary utensil, a special form for baking bread referred to in all standard cook books.

Soon we shall be obliged to speak the sign language or bring a sample on our shopping tours and ask, "Match this Can you?" FARMER.

To Mrs. Gann.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
CLIMBING with heavy foot the social scale,

With all the world set to defeat your plan,
What does your petty triumph now avail,

Oh, Mrs. Gann!

Had you not gained your utmost heart's desire?

If, like the meek and lowly Bible man,
You'd waited for the call: "Friend, go up higher!"

Oh, Mrs. Gann!

A Working Girl's Complaint.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM one of many hundred working girls who try to eat their lunch at various soda fountains in the department stores, and I venture to say that nearly every day I hear the remark from some married woman or some person whose time is not limited, such as we, who only get a short time for lunch, "I surely am glad that I don't have to rush my lunch like the working girls." Still, why do they invariably eat their lunch at 12 o'clock? People who are shopping and have lots of time should use a little common sense and eat their lunch either before 12 o'clock or after 1 o'clock and let those girls whose time is so limited get at the fountain at 12 o'clock.

I have waited time and time again for some woman to eat only a sandwich and drink a glass of coca cola and, then they have the nerve to say that they are glad they don't have to hurry, such as the working girls. A WORKING GIRL

RAIDING THE TREASURY.

President Hoover opposes the export debenture plan of the Senate Agriculture Committee. In a letter to Senator McNary, the committee chairman, he raises the following objections:

It amounts to a direct subsidy from the Treasury.

It would decrease Treasury receipts by more than $200,000,000 a year.

It would be a gift from the Government and people to dealers in farm products and speculators.

It would cause overproduction.

Bankruptcies would follow should the plan be withdrawn as the bill provides in certain contingencies.

It would bring reprisals from foreign Governments.

In Mr. Hoover's judgment, concurred in by Cabinet officers whom he has consulted, the plan would bring disaster to the farmer.

Some of those objections are in the nature of opinion. One at least is an obvious fact, namely, that it amounts to a direct subsidy from the Treasury. There can be no question about that. That this subsidy would exceed $200,000,000 a year is an item of calculation which may be accepted as approximately correct. Public opinion will, we believe, acquiesce in the President's deduction that the speculators, rather than the farmers, would reap most of the profits.

That distress, in the form of bankruptcy, would follow suspension of the plan, seems logical, in view of the experience recorded by the deflation of 1920, from which, as Mr. Hoover rightly says, many of the farmers' ills have derived.

The debenture plan, as Mr. Hoover analyzes it, is more objectionable than the famous equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen bill. That plan put the Government in the business of price-fixing, but it did not contemplate a direct subsidy from the Treasury; it proposed that the benefited farmers should pay the premium by way of pro rata assessment. Mr. Coolidge's second veto message of that plan was, it will be recalled, the most vehement expression of his administration. Impassioned as it was, it was hardly as devastating as Mr. Hoover's condemnation of the debenture plan. It is a bold raid on the Treasury, in which he sees no merit, and which he pronounces as thoroughly vicious.

The other side is yet to be heard. Meantime the country as a whole will, we believe, be impressed by Mr. Hoover's letter as a forthright paper.

THOSE DEADLY FUNERALS.

History hangs on trivialities. A chill London drizzle fell on the heads of those who marched hatless behind the body of Field Marshal Haig in February, 1928. Marshal Foch of France marched in that parade and contracted pneumonia, of which he died last month.

Meanwhile, traffic upon the inland waterways increases year by year. This year the barge service on the Mississippi River will extend as far north as the Twin Cities. This year, too, the Government barge line on the Mississippi will begin to receive, under appropriations from Congress, the first units of what will at length double its original fleet. JUDGE KENYON AT HIS BEST.

Judge William S. Kenyon, who has struck many mighty blows in the public interest during his long career, is at his best in his opinion on the case of Pottawatomie County, Oklahoma, against the estate of Robert Lee Alexander and the American Surety Co. of New York. It was testified that Alexander, as County Treasurer, had invested $75,000 of public funds in municipal bonds of Devol, Ok., and received a secret commission of $7500 in connection with the transaction.

In affirming the decision of the lower court, which awarded a $75,000 judgment to Pottawatomie County, Judge Kenyon said:

That a man cannot serve two masters and serve them faithfully is as true in law as in holy writ. It is the duty of a judge even of a private party to look singly to the growth of his principal, and not to attempt to line his own pockets with ill-gotten gains. He should not be permitted to occupy a position where duty is likely to be forgotten in the quest for personal gain. How vastly more is this true when he occupies a public position of trust and confidence.

Judge Kenyon laid down the principle that no governing body, state, national or local, may be required to show any injury arising out of a corrupt act of an agent. Nor is it compelled to accept possible fruits of such corruption. Disclosure of the fraud permits the governing body to wash its hands of the transaction. Judge Kenyon holds it to be axiomatic that the perpetuity of Government by the people is dependent upon the honesty of those who administer it.

In short, his opinion bristles with vigorous reaffirmations of old-fashioned principles of honesty and morality in public affairs. In this Teapot Dome age, how refreshing it is to hear such words from the august bench of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals!

The impression that any religious sect profits by having one of its members elected to the White House is not borne out by a recent religious census. The Friends or Quakers, were one of the three sects whose membership decreased last year.

MR. HOOVER AND THE JUDICIARY.

Mr. Hoover continues his application of non-political methods to public business, and the country can only wonder by this time what public affairs might have been like had all our Presidents been efficiency experts.

His latest announcement is that the names of sponsors for Federal Judges will be made public. We are not going to believe that the real sponsors for such appointments are going to be divulged, because they operate behind political screens where even Mr. Hoover cannot detect them. What we can believe is that such publicity will confine the promises of politicians, especially those high in organization, to a single quarter. Usually these gentle men promise an appointment to so many people that they go on a fishing trip when the nomination is sent to the Senate.

If publicity will stop that duplicity, it will be something. We are not ready to hope that the Machiavellian influences so often behind Senators, Congressmen, and national committees, in a field of such power as the Federal judiciary, are going to be exposed.

Prof. Laski may be right. For some years after the war Liberalism in England was sick almost unto death. It is not quite so sick now. Yet sick it is, and it may be, as Prof. Laski says, that the party is being kept alive only by the personal fortune of Mr. Lloyd George.

Still, we find it difficult to visualize the Liberals of England joining the ranks of the Conservatives, and only a little less difficult to think of them voting with Labor. The true Liberal is a good deal like Henry Clay, who, if we remember our American history, once declared that he "would rather be right than be President." He would rather put his money on the nose of a Liberal candidate and see him come in third than to put it on the nose of a Conservative or Labor candidate and see him come in first.

VICTORY FOR THE RIVERS.

By a sweeping order which is in effect an application of the Denison act passed by the last Congress, the Interstate Commerce Commission has firmly placed the inland waterways within the vast web of Mississippi Valley transportation.

The order compels all railroads within the territory of the rivers, to put into effect joint rates with the barges and boats operating upon the Mississippi and its tributaries. Applying the terms of the Denison act, this rate structure must be completed within 90 days, or by August 27. The rivers are accorded everywhere a reduction up to 20 per cent from rail rates.

Joint rates are to the rivers what blood is to the body. The fight for a joint rate structure relating the barges and boats to rail transportation has raged hotly ever since the Government established its original barge line on the lower Mississippi. Seventy per cent of the traffic handled on the rivers last year originated at inland points. No such thing as river traffic would be possible if it were left to submit upon freights originating at river ports. After more than 10 years of interminable hearings and at times infinitesimal gains for the inland waters, cases in which the Government attorneys matched their wits with the rate experts of the railroads, Mr. Denison, an Illinois Congressman, determined to strike a decisive blow for the rivers by act of Congress. The result was the Denison act, which has just been put into effect by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It arbitrarily allocates the rivers and all the railroads touching them. It affects rates upon produce coming and going to points as far away as the Rocky Mountains.

A Stendhal Boom?

STENDHAL. By Paul Hazard. (Oxford-McCann.)

THOUGH no less a personage in the republic of letters than the great Balzac, freely praised the novels of Stendhal, it is only within the past decade or two that the larger reading public of the world began to take note of this master who died nearly a century ago. It looks now as though there might be a Stendhal boom; "not that the reading public has grown up to the man; the great reading public doesn't grow up—it prefers established ideas and attack dogmatic phrases and affectation. It is this distinctly 'modern' trait that might well bring his work into vogue now." The following is characteristic.

A man next to him once prised the grandeur of the Napoléonic campaigns and heroism in general. Béyle interrupted immediately.

"Heroism?" said Béyle with a laugh. "I can tell you about heroism. I have seen a whole French brigade turn tail and run when it was surprised by five Cossacks, the gilt-hatted generals leaping ahead like rabbits, and I following them as fast as I could, one boot on and one off. Only one old grenadier offered any resistance that day. They tried to give him a cross-attack, but he hid from them and then swore he had had nothing to do with the affair. He thought his general wanted to shoot him. There's glory for you."

Another man spoke of famous military sayings, "Lies," said Béyle.

"I can give you an example of famous military sayings," he said. "The third day out on the Moscow retreat, I found myself separated, with fifteen hundred men from the rest of the army. An entire Russian division was known to be between us and the rest. Night came down and found us in that predicament, and we spent the hours of darkness in groans and lamentations. The men were at the point of panic when some valiant spirits roused themselves and made us a speech, an eloquent, military speech which went something as follows: 'You may — your coat in hell tomorrow if you don't grab your — gun and get after these — Russians.'

"The valiant soldiers were inspired by such noble words and in the morning we marched courageously toward the Russians, guiding ourselves by the light of their bivouac fires. It was a daring thing to do for us to do, and we were not a little pleased with ourselves. We were still more pleased when we found exactly one mangy dog in the Russian camp. The entire division had left in the middle of the night . . ."

Things went along nicely until some of the authors, whose works had plagiarized, objected, and

ST. LOUIS HOME REPRODUCED FOR ARTIST'S EXHIBITION

Works of Mrs. Sheila Burlingame on Display at Scruggs-Vandervoort's.

A St. Louis home has been reproduced for an exhibition opening today on the sixth floor of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, of the work of Mrs. Sheila Burlingame, St. Louis artist. This mode of display has been adopted by a few museums, but this show is its first appearance in a private exhibition.

Mrs. Burlingame's unusual range of mediums is particularly suited to this means of display. In the oak-paneled rooms she displays not only oil portraits, figure paintings, sculptured figures, and portrait busts of E. M. Grossman, Clark McAdams and Capt. Harry Moss, but garden terra cotta, wall fountains, decorative tiles, batik drawings, wood cuts and decorative screens.

Advantages of displaying art in natural home surroundings are obvious. Other St. Louis artists who have been invited to take part in a series of similar shows include Tom P. Barnett, Margaret Breen, Fred G. Carpenter, Mildred Bailey Carpenter, Kathryn Cherry, John J. Eppenstein, Charles Gault, Adele Schubel, Gleeson, Charles K. Gleeson, Gustav Goetsch, Nancy Coonsman Hahn, Victor Holm, Mrs. Victor Holm, Frank Nuderscher, Caroline Risque and E. O. Thalinger.

WEBSTER GROVES GARDEN CLUB

Will Meet With Horticultural Society Tomorrow Night.

The Horticultural Society will meet with the Webster Groves Home Garden Club at 8 p. m. tomorrow at Webster Groves High School. The dahlia section will hold a preliminary session at 7:30.

Major Wilson of Webster Groves and James R. Rau, president of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce, will give addresses of welcome. Eugene H. Angert, president of the society, will demonstrate rock gardening. Mortimer Burroughs will discuss "Flowerbox Gardening" and A. E. Brookner will talk on "Annuals and Perennials Suitable for Shady Gardens." Hostesses will be Mrs. Alex Miltenberger, Mrs. George S. Henschenbruch, Mrs. Henry J. Wickman, Mrs. Louis Kunz, Mrs. Paul Marshall and Mrs. J. P. Larson.

Throop Talks to Language Clubs. Chancellor Throop of Washington University, speaking Saturday night at a joint meeting of the St. Louis Classical Club and the Modern Language Club, said there had been a decided increase in the past two years in the number of students taking Latin courses in St. Louis. The Rev. Thomas Bowdern of St. Louis University was installed as president of the Classical Club. The two organizations are composed of students at St. Louis and Washington universities.

MRS. JULIA FRANKENTHAL DIES

Resident of St. Louis for 70 Years to Be Buried Wednesday.

Mrs. Julia Frankenthal, a resident of St. Louis for more than 70 years, died today of infirmities at her home, 5555 Pershing avenue. She was 93 years old.

Mrs. Frankenthal was the widow of Alexander Frankenthal, wholesale dry goods merchant, who died in 1891. She is survived by four daughters. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at Shaare Emeth Temple, Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard.

To Our Set quite naturally and entertainingly. Miss Astor is the girl who climbs out of the cellars where she has been working as a cabaret performer. On the way up she meets a real man and marries him. Inevitably her underworld companions turn up to blackmail her but a friendly detective takes care of the whole matter very skillfully and Mary and her husband are left alone to enjoy themselves at the end. "Romance of the Underworld" is a good silent drama well worth seeing.

Quiet Restored—Nearly.

MIL JANNINGS, who is going back to Germany, where he can make talkies in a language which he can speak, is appearing in his last but one American-made film at the Missouri. This is "Betrayal," with Mr. Jannings in somewhat familiar role of the husband who has turned traitor to his wife. Esther Robins, who married him while Gary Cooper is lying in a hospital bed, Esther fell a little harder than usual and during the course of the tragedy it develops that only one of her two children was really related to Emil. Then Emil was in quite a fix. He wanted to keep one of the kids and drown the other but he didn't know which one was his. He might have choked the baby. He might have choked the boy. In the original story of "Coquette" it was the girl who died by her own hand to bring the unhappy complications to an unhappy ending. In the picture version her father kills the boy who dragged her name into the mud and then dramatically ends his own life. The film finish is, perhaps, none the less somber but, perfectly consistently, it leaves the heroine alive and allows the audience to believe, or, at least hope, that some time in the future she will find happiness with a manly young fellow who has loved her always. "Coquette" is a fine picture, a fine talkie and it is faithfully presented by Miss Pickford and a cast which has something to say and knows how to say it.

Romancing With Mary.

WHAT silent pictures still have a wide appeal is ably demonstrated by "Romance of the Underworld" at the Fox. Mary Astor, as easy to look upon as the other Mary who has taken over quiet screens for the squeakers, displays her charm and her personality in this story which begins in the underworld and works up to the point where the Ziegfeld show, rather poorly done, precede the main picture, which is a part talking, part silent but complete dramatization of Miss Ferber's book. It is so complete that it runs for two hours and while amusing in spots and dramatic in others it becomes exceedingly tedious before it ends with a very pretty and effective scene. There is some of the Ziegfeld music introduced during the course of the picture play but the piece falls far short of coming up to expectations and the advance advertising. Since the opening night, last Friday, "Show Boat" has been trimmed in length but it is still just about twice as long as it should be to meet the entertainment requirements of its audiences.

LAURA LA PLANTA and Joseph Schmidkraut are the stars and there is some fine photography on display but the legitimate stage has again come forward in this talkie and singie. Rather it is a boost for the real thing and Mr. Ziegfeld may send his musical comedy on the road next fall in perfect safety.

DEBENTURE PLAN OPPOSED BY THREE U.S. DEPARTMENTS

Agriculture, Commerce and Treasury Statements Advise President That Scheme Is Unwise.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 22.—The declaration of President Hoover opposing the debenture plan of farm relief was based largely on studies made for him by the Agriculture, Commerce and Treasury Departments.

Secretary Hyde of the Agriculture says from our study of the effect of export debentures in other countries that it has operated to increase production. "As a consequence of the operation of the debenture plan, there would be a tendency in farming to shift from many lines of production toward the production of debenturable commodities, especially those with a short production cycle—grain and cotton, for example—the acreage of which could be increased greatly from one year to the next in the expectation of realizing quickly the benefits of the debenture. This would at least temporarily disturb established production programs. Furthermore, should the support of prices provided through this plan be removed, the debenture would immediately condition agriculture world stand to suffer accordingly."

World War Prices.

"It should be noted also that an increase in our exports of a commodity would tend to depress world prices. This would tend to reduce the effectiveness of the debenture and necessitate further increases in debenture rates in order to maintain prices."

"Should the world price level of a commodity rise materially, there would still be an enhancement of the domestic price above the world level by the amount of the effective debenture. This would tend to give an abnormal stimulus to production."

A memorandum prepared by the Department of Commerce estimated that if the export bonus were fully effective in raising prices the total cost to the public theoretically on the seven commodities to be affected—pork, wheat, corn, rice, cotton, tobacco, and cattle—would be $518,000,000 annually, of which $369,000,000 would be increased cost on domestic consumption and $149,000,000 public revenues spent on paying the bounty.

"The bill," it continued, "provides that when increased acreage or production reaches 15 per cent, the debenture plan then becomes inoperative and shall be withdrawn. The effect of this would be to leave the industry with an increased production and no protection."

A straight export bounty, it said, would have the same effect, would cost the public exactly the same, and would be simpler of operation, but "it should be pointed out that practically all countries, with two or three exceptions, have anti-dumping laws."

Mellon's Position.

Secretary Mellon in a letter to the Senate Committee on Agriculture, said:

"The issuance of a Treasury debenture is indistinguishable in principle and in its effect on the Treasury from a cash bounty on exports. The farmer, in whose interests the plan is devised, will more nearly get the full benefit, whereas it is inevitable that he will receive considerably less than the face value of the debenture."

If issued in large amounts, as they may well be, it is likely that the debentures will sell at a very considerable discount which would not only deprive the farmer of a portion of the benefit arising from the debenture rate, but represents a bonus to importers, and would seriously dislocate the tariff schedules fixed by the Congress.

Such a method of reducing tariff rates would unquestionably be of some American farmers in order to benefit other farmers, whereas if a cash bounty were paid the latter would get the full benefit and there would be no dislocation of tariff schedules such as might prove injurious to our present manufacturing prosperity which is an important factor in supporting the farmers' domestic market.

Overproduction Danger.

The second major question is whether it is economically desirable to pay a cash bounty on the exports of a commodity which is already produced in excess of domestic requirements. I think not.

There is a real danger that a substantial increase will take place in domestic production leading to the automatic suspension of the bounty, and that the farmer will then find himself in a worse situation than he is today.

"It is hardly to be assumed that foreign countries with important agricultural interests to protect will permit their producers to be subjected to a price war subsidised from the United States Treasury with adopting protective measures."

"It seems unnecessary to point out that the program will, of course, entail a sharp diminution in customs receipts accompanied by increased expenses of administration and a corresponding need for supplementing the loss by increased taxation along other lines."

Real Effects of Tuberculosis Created by Injection of New Chemical Similar to Food Fat

Phosphatid, Used in Experiment, Obtained Through Analysis of Millions of Germs—Test Shown at Science Meeting.

By WATSON DAVIS.
Managing Editor—Science Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The characteristic effect of disease produced by a more chemical substance absolutely free from any germ was the latest medical research achievement shown this morning to the National Academy of Sciences at the opening session of its annual meeting here by Dr. Florence R. Sabin of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, only woman member of the National honorary organization of American Science.

Tuberculosis was the disease the effects of which were induced to appear by repeated injections of a hitherto unknown chemical, an oil containing phosphatid, similar in composition to common fats.

This is a real step toward a better understanding of tuberculosis. Perhaps it is a step toward its cure. But human life other than the great white plague will benefit from the new biological technique developed in the research. It is a novel and promising method in the study of diseases.

Results of Long Study.

No single individual is to be credited with this accomplishment. It is one of the results of a far-flung and thorough attack on tuberculosis by many scientists working under a general plan developed by a committee of the National Tuberculosis Association of which Dr. William C. White of the United States Hygiene Laboratory is chairman. Dr. Sabin's results would have been impossible without the work of Prof. Treat B. Johnson and Dr. R. J. Anderson of Yale who took a number of tuberculous bacilli and for the first time in history discovered the chemical compounds that compose them.

These components of the microbes, isolated and identified, were turned over to Dr. Sabin and her associates, Drs. Charles A. Doan and C. E. Forkner, who tested their effects on normal animals. Part of the funds obtained through the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals the limitation of armament unless all classes of war vessels, including cruisers, destroyers and submarines are limited. It could not agree to any method which would result in leaving any class of combatant vessels unrestricted. In its reply, under date of Sept. 28, 1928, to communications from the British and French Governments concerning an understanding reached between them as to a basis of naval limitation, my Government pointed out that this understanding applied to only one type of cruiser and one type of submarine and would leave unregulated a large number of effective fighting units. This note also called attention to the American position at the Geneva naval conference and the fact that a proposal for general reduction was urged by the American delegation.

"The willingness of my Government, I may even say its eagerness, to go to low levels, is based upon the fundamental belief that naval needs are relative, namely, that what we may require for our defense depends chiefly upon the size of the navies maintained by others.

"Aside from the signatories of the Washington treaty, there is no conceivable combination of naval power which could threaten the safety of any of the principal naval powers. What justification can there be for the powers which lead in the respective classes of naval vessels to sanction further building programs in the United States? In the case of the United States we have already expressed our willingness to agree on a basis that would mean a substantial reduction of our present destroyer and submarine types. In the case of cruisers it is only possession by others of greatly superior strength in this class which has led to the adoption of the present building program.

"My Government cannot find any justification for the building and maintenance of large naval establishments save on the ground that no power can reduce except as a result of general reduction. Let us ask ourselves honestly what these establishments are for. As regards the relations of the maritime powers to each other there is no such need. Even in the danger of war is admitted, it could be guaranteed against just as well by the maintenance of relative strength at low levels as at higher levels. The principal naval powers have nothing to fear from the naval strength of the countries nonsignatory to the Washington treaty. There is no conceivable combination of naval strength among the nonsignatory powers which need give concern.

"As an example, the cruiser strength of all the nonsignatory countries in the world does not attain to one-half of the cruiser tonnage of the greatest single fleet.

CURRY EXPECTED TO BE MADE NEW TAMMANY CHIEF

Election Tomorrow to Mark Change in Hall's Policy, Control of Which Is Conceded to Walker.

By LEASED WIRE FROM THE NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The World says: "A new deal of far-reaching consequences in Tammany and Democratic policies, national and State, seems to be impending on the eve of the election of a new leader for Tammany Hall tomorrow, expected to mark the turning of the local Democratic organization from its old leader to a new one—Mayor Walker."

"In the ordinary course of tuberculosis, the germs invade the living cells and multiply. As a result of substances exerted by the germs or in their bodies, the body cells enlarge and clump together forming the cheesy masses called tubercles. The research in progress promises to show just what are the causative chemicals.

"Even cancer may eventually yield secrets as a result of this investigation. Cancers are composed of cells growing wild and similarly than tuberculosis and cancer may give fruitful suggestions despite the present unknown cause of cancer. Carbon dioxide will save many lives threatened by pneumonia, if the experiment on dogs, reported to the academy by Dr. Yandell Henderson of Yale, finds successful application to human cases of this disease, particularly when collapse of the lung occurs.

How Animals Were Treated.

Animals with experimental pneumonia which otherwise would have died in one to three days made complete recoveries when they were placed in an atmosphere of 5 to 7 per cent carbon dioxide, the gas that everyone exhales and that makes soda water fizz.

In essentials this is the same treatment now used by rescue crews in many cities for saving those overcome with carbon monoxide which is the product of incomplete combustion. Dr. Henderson and his associate, Dr. H. W. Haggard, developed this carbon monoxide treatment and their experience in that work led to the researches on pneumonia.

Diluting the air with the inert and harmless carbon dioxide causes the patient to breathe deeply and thus expand the lungs put out of commission by collapse.

Probable Results of Election.

"The change from the new Tammany to the old Tammany would seem to hold in store these results for the Democratic party:

"Inability of Alfred E. Smith, or any other Tammany Democrat to successfully seek nomination to a nation-wide office for years."

"A diminishing of the chances of Gov. Roosevelt for re-election in 1930."

"A lessening of the power of Tammany Hall in city politics, effective after Mayor Walker gets through holding that office."

"The loss to the Democratic party at least in city and state affairs, of the counsel, guidance and campaigning of Alfred E. Smith, which proved effective in the past."

"Abandonment of Tammany's new flight into the field of higher politics, and its return to local and ward politics."

"My Government believes firmly in its idea that naval needs are relative and that radical general reduction is possible only on the theory of relative needs. I trust that these views may commend themselves to other Governments and that it will be possible to agree upon such reductions. If however, it is impossible to agree on this basis, it is obvious that there will remain only the thesis of absolute naval needs. This would mean that all thought of reduction is abandoned, that each country retains a free hand in building with an inevitable tendency toward competition. Surely we can hardly envisage such a sequel to our solemn undertaking to keep the peace."

"My Government has always felt that we need no exact balance of ships and guns which can be based only upon the idea of conflict—what is really wanted is a common-sense agreement, based on the idea that we are going to be friends and settle our problems by peaceful means."

"My Government has never believed that an effective approach to the problem of disarmament could be made by methods of reduction of armaments alone. It feels that genuine disarmament will follow only from a change of attitude toward the use of force in the settlement of international disputes. It is for that reason that I venture to make this appeal that the countries here represented examine the whole problem afresh in the hope that they will find in general world conditions and in the solemn obligation they have taken among themselves a reassurance as to their security and that they will find in this the confidence to enable them to dispense with armaments which hitherto have seemed so essential."

Intended as Frank Exposition of U. S. View, Stimson says.

Secretary Stimson in commenting on Gibson's address said it was designed to be a frank exposition of the American Government's attitude on the whole naval disarmament question. Stimson said previous suggestions for limitations of armaments had been of a character either to approve the present armament of the naval Powers, or even to necessitate some increases in the naval forces. The United States, he declared, was desirous of obtaining reductions and would go the limit to get such reductions. He added that this country now had placed itself on record as favoring any reduction of naval tonnage, however severe, but which leaves no type of war vessel unrestricted.

Home EconomicsA SHOULDER OF PORK IS A SPLENDID BUY

This is a Most Delicious Cut
That Serves to Good Advantage.

Fresh pork is always in season,
but, according to market reports, fresh shoulder of pork is an especially fine buy.

The shoulder of pork coming from a young animal will weigh from five to six pounds. The flesh will be a light pink in color, the meat fairly fine grained and well marbled with firm white fat. The meat should be moist but not wet and should have a fresh, sweet odor. The bone of young pork is pink and porous, showing red in places.

A shoulder cut of this grade of meat is deliciously juicy and tender if cooked according to the following directions:

Cheshire Pork Pie.

Purchase three pounds of lean fresh pork shoulder. Cut it into strips.
Line a buttered dish with rich pastry and put in a layer of pork seasoning with salt and pepper and powdered mace. Cover with a layer of apples sliced and cored and sprinkle with sugar. Repeat until the dish is full, having apple on top. Dot with butter, pour in one cup of cider, cover with a thick crust of rich pastry, cut a slit in the top, brush with beaten egg and bake for an hour and a half.

Baked Pork Shoulder.

Have the bones removed from a shoulder of pork and tie or skewer into shape. Rub meat with salt and pepper, allowing one teaspoon of salt and one-quarter teaspoon of pepper to each pound of meat.
Then dredge with flour. Place on a trivet in a covered roaster. Seal in a 450 degree Fahrenheit over 30 minutes. Reduce heat to a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit and stir slowly allowing 25 to 30 minutes to the pound.

Casseroles of Shoulder.

Six thick shoulder pork chops, one tablespoon of powdered sage,
one teaspoon each of salt and pepper, two large onions, one tablespoon flour and two bouillon cubes dissolved in two cups of boiling water. Place a layer of thinly sliced onion in the bottom of a greased casserole. Sift the flour, salt, pepper and sage together and dip chops into this mixture. Lay them on the onions and pour over the two cups of boiling water in which the bouillon cubes are dissolved. Simmer in a moderate oven about two hours.

KEEP UP THE GOOD HABIT OF WEEKLY FISH DINNERS

Seafoods Are Wholesome on Account of Their High Food Value

Fish flakes are excellent as a filling for such foods as green peppers, cabbage, etc.

A most delicious dish can be made by stuffing boiled green pepper cups with creamed fish flakes, sprinkling with bread crumbs, and preparing au gratin.

The same types of dishes are equally good when prepared from finnan haddie, or smoked haddock.
This is particularly delectable when broiled for breakfast, after the sections have been deftly torn from the hard, leathery skin.

Fish Loaf.

One and a half cups of flaked fish, half a cup of cooked rice or stale bread crumbs, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon sugar, half a teaspoon dry mustard, one teaspoon onion juice, grains cayenne, two egg yolks, two tablespoons melted butter, three-quarters cup milk, one-quarter cup lemon juice, one tablespoon gelatin dissolved in two tablespoons cold water.

Mix and butter. Add vinegar and yolks and butter. Add sugar and blend well. Add gelatin dissolved in hot milk. Stir in fish flakes and set in fancy mold to chill.
Serve with green and lemon garnish and some snappy sauce like pimento, tomato or sauce tartare.

ALLURING SUNSHINE PIE

This Culinary Dainty Is a Favorite With Tearoom Patrons.

Whirl pie is considered the great American dessert, how many have tasted sunshine pie? It is rather an expensive sweet to make, as it calls for many very expensive ingredients, including candied cherries and whipped cream, but it is delicious.

This is how sunshine pie is made: Take three egg yolks, one and one-half tablespoon gelatin, one-third cup milk, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup sugar, one cup scalded milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups whipped cream and one-half cup glazed or candied cherries.

Soak gelatin in one-third cup cold milk five minutes. Mix egg yolks, salt and sugar; add to scalded milk and cook until mixture coats the spoon. Add soaked gelatin and stir until dissolved. Then add flavoring. Let stand until thick like molasses. Fold in whipped cream and turn into baked pie shell. Garnish with candied cherries.

Always Sift Flour.

One cup unsifted flour varies in

DIFFERENCES IN SPONGES,

They Are All Adaptations of a Standard Gelatin Mixture.

What is the difference between sponges? That there is a difference most cooks know but few can define the differences in these three classes of popular gelatin desserts?

You make a whip of any standard fruit gelatin mixture by whipping the thickening jelly until light and frothy.

You make a sponge of any standard fruit gelatin mixture by reducing the cold liquid one-half or less, and replace with equal amount of cream, whipped, and folded into jelly mixture as it thickens.

A Salad Hint.

Orange juice is an important ingredient of dressings used on fruits and the basis of many simple dressings without oil. These are particularly suitable for children, for the invalid tray, and for those dieting who may not include richer dressings. Use natural fruit juices on salads and see how refreshing they become.

Baked Pears.

Dipped halves of canned pears in fine buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned. Set aside to cool and serve with whipped cream. May also be served hot, if desired.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, list-lessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's
ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it.

Two tablespoonsful daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by

SERVE STRAWBERRIES ONCE EVERY DAY

There Are a Variety of Ways of Preparing These Luscious Berries.

Many housekeepers have remarked that strawberries offer an unusual appeal this season. Some or other they seem more fascinating than usual as we view them on display counters and shelves of the grocery stores, meat markets and chain stores.

Besides being one of our most attractive and colorful fruits, strawberries are a very valuable food product so it behoves the housewife to include them in the family menu as often as possible.

While many prefer to serve strawberries au naturel or uncooked, the trend of the times is to utilize them in combination cooked dishes. Several recipes of this type are included in this article.

Strawberry Tapioca.
Take one-half cup tapioca, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon butter, three cups hot water, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one pint strawberries.

Cook tapioca, sugar, butter, salt and hot water in a double boiler 15 minutes, or until clear. Wash, hull and crush berries; sweeten to taste and let stand one-half hour. Take tapioca from fire and stir in fruit. Serve cold. Raspberries, or any other fruit may be used in place of strawberries.

Strawberry Float.
Take four eggs, one-half cup

CITRUS FRUIT JUICE FOR BABY'S DIET

Many Mothers Find It Practical to Prepare the Juice the Evening Before.

If there is one time when feeding is of the utmost importance, it is in infancy and growing childhood. Babies must have not only sufficient food for rapid body building, but food for energy for their daily internal activities (breathing, circulation, etc.) and their external activities (kicking, crawling, etc.).

At the end of the sixth month, no matter what type of feeding is being followed, it is customary to give a baby orange juice. Give from one to two tablespoons of strained orange juice midway between two of the forenoon feedings.

It helps in keeping the bowels open and acts as a safeguard against scurvy, rickets and lowered vitality which result when sufficient vitamins are not supplied. At the end of the ninth month a child can be given as much as three tablespoons of orange juice.

At the time of weaning the amount of orange juice should be still further increased and its use continued all through childhood, preferably a half hour before the morning meal or at the mid-afternoon lunch.

It is particularly at the weaning period that orange juice becomes so important in the child's dietary. The change from a liquid milk diet to one of solids is a critical adjustment. During it the child must eat those foods which provide abundant lime and other salts to replace those contained in the milk he is leaving behind.

In the growing period between 2-12 years, the child is actually building its entire bone structure, and particularly its teeth.

There can be no strong and well developed dental structure unless during the whole time the teeth are slowly developing the child is continuously supplied with lime bearing foods, such as orange juice, remains fundamental in the child's physical growth.

It is only from lime salts, phosphates, potash and other mineral qualities that bone structure can be developed. It has been proved that most cases of defective teeth in adults can be directly traced to inadequate lime supply during childhood.

Strained juice may be given according to age, and older children allowed to eat the whole fruit in simple forms and dishes. Fresh air, exercise and rest are important factors in development. But vitamin-bearing foods, such as orange juice, remain fundamental in the child's physical growth.

HOW TO UTILIZE UNCOOKED OR COOKED EGG PORTIONS
Often times cooks are at a loss, How to Use Them Up.

Always wash eggs before breaking shells, the shells may then be used for clearing coffee or soup.

When uncooked whites or yolks are left over, put them in a cup, cover with a damp cloth and slip a rubber band around the cup.

Last over poached eggs, soft-cooked eggs may be returned to hot water and cooked until hard, and may then be chopped and used with cold meat or fish dishes.

When soft boiled eggs are left over, reboil them until hard, put yolks and white separately through a ricer or sieve and use as a garnish for vegetables.

Or, on a thin slice of tomato place a little chopped onion and pepper, the yolks and whites to form a star, and place all on a thin, crisp slice of toast. Use this as a relish for first course for luncheon dinner.

THIS SAVORY SANDWICH IS A MEAL IN ITSELF

A Cook's Ingenious Genius Achieved That Tempting Hot Sandwich.

Make regular sandwiches in any preferred size and shape of buttered stale bread and spread with chopped and seasoned ham or sausage.

When ham is used be sure to leave in a little of the fat. Press each sandwich firmly together, dip in a bath made by adding one cup of milk to a beaten egg and seasoning with pepper and salt to taste.

Brown rapidly to rich, warm hue in a little butter or nice fat. The egg will bear more milk if many sandwiches are to be made.

With a green vegetable or a vegetable salad for lunch or supper this makes a most satisfying meal.

Cinnamon Strips.

Cut fresh bread in four slices, one inch thick. Remove crust and cut in three strips, one inch wide, making twelve strips. Brush all over with melted butter and roll in sugar and cinnamon mixed together and sifted to insure a thorough mixing. Bake in a hot oven or at 400 degrees F. for eight minutes. Serve hot.

Cheese Toast.
Remove the crust from slices of bread which have been cut about one-fourth inch thick. Toast bread on one side, and place this slice of cheese on other side; sprinkle with paprika; then place under the broiler until the cheese melts and browns slightly.

52 Degrees Below Zero At Byrd's Camp After Blizzard of Two Days

Expedition's Doctor Runs Unclad in Cold to Study the Effect of the Low Temperature on the Body.

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times Co.) This story is published exclusive in St. Louis in the Post-Dispatch. All news articles, features, editorials, and columns, or from special correspondents assigned to this city.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, April 22. (By Wireless)—The blizzard subsided in the night, and today is clear and cold. It is 52 degrees below zero. There is no wind, and Bernt Balchen, Dean Smith and Jack O'Brien went for a walk down on the bay ice and along the gray line of jagged pressure ridges. Commander Byrd goes down there nearly every day, no matter what the weather. Every one tries to get out for a time and take some exercise.

We are on our winter schedule now and get up at 8:30, have breakfast, and have dinner at 4:30, two meals a day, with coffee in between, bedtime is 10 o'clock and a few hardy souls read a short time by the light of a candle or lantern beside their bunk, until their hands get too cold to hold the book, and that isn't long.

Run nude outdoors.

Dr. Francis D. Coman, who has been studying the effect of low temperatures on the body, took the opportunity of the cold day and the prospect of a bath to test his own resistance to cold. Much to our amusement, he ran outdoors, without clothes and 200 yards to the other house. He ran as fast as he could and was hitting a good pace at the end in order to keep from slipping. He had caribou slippers on his feet. Steam rose from him as if from a locomotive going up a grade and his breath rolled out in clouds.

He raised at least a 20-mile wind in his run over and it burned his body like fire. The backs of his fingers and hands were white from being nipped when he dashed into the other house and up to the stove but the rest of his body was untouched. When he came back, he walked, and as there was no wind, felt no bad effect at all. He even stopped at the thermometer shelter and opened it to see what the temperature was and then strolled in as nonchalantly as if he had been clothed. Then he had his bath.

Balloon Observer Nipped.

Henry Harrison also made what is thought to be the record low temperature balloon run. He stood outside at his instrument following the rise of the balloon for 48 minutes. He was bundled up well and had a handkerchief tied across his nose. But handling the screws on the instrument in thin gloves for such a long period at 52 degrees below is punishing and his hands were pretty cold when he came in. His right heel also was slightly frozen from standing still. He and William Haines have the coldest work of us all this winter.

The blizzard came up Saturday out of the eastern sky and blew up a drift which sent everyone indoors.

The whole aspect of our existence here is changing with the going of the sun. In place of the clear white light, to which we were so long accustomed, the landscape is overlaid in the light of today with dull grays with light streams of crimson and orange on the horizon.

At night there is a grim shadowy light from the stars or the aurora reflected on the snow and the moon comes up a monstrous and distorted ball of red. It is as if a world were dying.

It is dark now long before we go to sleep, and last night on the way back, a tiny speck of light flared up on the hillside of Barrier north of the camp. A second after it went out a bright green glow burst forth and a whole section of the barrier glowed as if with an internal green light.

Commander Byrd, with Joe Rucker and Van der Ver, the photographer, had gone up to look at the crevasses with a magnesium flare to see if it could be photographed.

(This is the crack, 300 yard-long, recently discovered in the Barrier surface near the camp.)

A Weird Effect.

They held the flare down in the crack and could see far down into it, its crystal sides gleaming with green gems glowing darker emerald toward the bottom, until they faded into blackness.

But the most astonishing effect was the glow through the ice itself, for the light so penetrated the Barrier that one appeared to be standing on a translucent surface, luminous below with the "fires of hell," as Commander Byrd said.

The glowing green surface seemed to become delicate and fragile until they had the feeling that they would fall through and stepped gingerly, although reason told them that the snow and ice were as solid as before.

Up through the shining crack came green whisks of smoke as if an inferno bathing with cold fire, were waiting to consume them. It was a weird and unforgettable sight.

The flares had died away and eyes were becoming accustomed to the darkness again when a barely perceptible red glow appeared on the horizon to the north.

"What in the world is that?" said someone. "It can't be the aurora so far down."

As it rose, faint streaks of red reached up toward the sky like was in itself a task that taxed the ingenuity of Capt. McKinley and those who helped him. He has been working at night with the aid of Rucker, Capt. Alton Parker, the flyers and Thomas Mulroy, the chief engineer, and the first of the prints have aroused everyone's admiration. They show the Barrier edge and the arrangement of the mountains so clearly that everyone feels that in the survey alone and the exploration which day when many friends of Com-preceded and followed it the expedition has done much toward accomplishing its mission.

Forty thousand square miles of new territory have been explored and a large part of it surveyed accurately and photographically and a large amount of interesting data have been gathered.

Hear Program Clearly.

We had one of our most enjoyable broadcasting evenings yesterday when many friends of Commander Byrd's were brought together at the New York Club in New York, to talk to him. They were gathered apparently by Joe Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard and a close friend of the commander and the expedition.

Barnum proved to be a great announcer and his voice reached us

Circles as Concrete Evidence of Improvement in Credit Situation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Improvement in the credit situation was mirrored today in a reduction of one-eighth of one per cent in bankers' acceptance rates on all except 30-day maturities. This was the first downward revision since the peak of the money stringency just before April 1.

The new rates were 5 1/2 per cent asked and 5 1/2 bid for 30, 60 and 90 day bills, up to 5 1/2 for 120-day bills and 5 1/2 to 5 1/2 for 150 and 180 days.

Dealers in other financial centers were expected to readjust their rates accordingly.

Industrial and Financial Briefs

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. had net income of $2,871,641, or $2.59 a share, in the first quarter. This compares with $2,398,222 or $2.16, in the corresponding quarter of last year.

For the quarter ended March 31, Beech-Nut Packing Co. had a balance of $580,841, equal to $1.37 a share, compared with $45,650, or $1.51 on the common in the first three months of 1928.

Construction activity declined during the first quarter of 1929 as compared with the first three months of 1928, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation figures. The January decline was 4 per cent. February's was 22 per cent and that of March 18 per cent.

International Combustion Engineering Corp. is offering common and preferred stockholders on April 26 the right to subscribe to 50,000 shares of 7 per cent convertible preferred at $100 a share on the basis of one new preferred share for every 20 shares of preference held.

Continental Can Co., Inc., has acquired McDonald Machine Co. of Chicago, manufacturer of can-making machinery.

NO DEFINITE CONCLUSION ON OTIS ELEVATOR STOCK SPLIT-UP

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—W. D. Baldwin, chairman of Otis Elevator Co., told the stockholders at the annual meeting today that although there had been some talk of splitting the common shares, the directors had reached no definite conclusion. He intimated that action probably would be taken later this year.

"The outlook for business continues good," Mr. Baldwin said. "Sales for the first quarter were up considerably over the same period last year. Investments in foreign corporations were satisfactory last year, especially in Canada, South America and England. The situation in France is fairly good."

FORMAL CLOSING OF REPARATIONS SESSION DELAYED

Today the general council of the Meuse department declared that should the reparations conference fail it would be through no fault of France, which was willing to revert to the original Dawes plan, having reached the limit of its concessions.

As debtors we have always remained faithful to our undertaking," said the Premier. "So little do we think of renouncing them that up to the present we have regularly met the payments on our foreign debts which have been agreed upon. It is, however, equitable that we seek in the recovery of our own war debts the means with which to pay what we owe our former allies and associates."

Fire, attributed to a defective fuse, caused $1,000 damage at 8 o'clock last night at Congregation Shaarai Zedek, 1500 Wash street.

Fire, originating in a closet of the third floor apartment of William B. Fogarty at 323 Clara avenue spread downward to the second-floor apartment of Charles Lewis at 4:50 a.m. yesterday. Total damage was $1,500.

An hour later someone telephoned a false alarm, reporting there was a fire at 5092 Page boulevard.

clearly did the singing of Reginald Werrenrath, whose songs were like an echo of home, and Harry Adams of the bark City of New York, whose familiar voice, last heard when he waved good-by to us from the New York, made us all laugh as he called out "Hold everything," which is becoming a Byrd expedition slogan. And the gracious speech of Lady Heath, the English pilot, and the talks of Clarence Chamberlin and his wife helped to make us pleased, day as we had hoped in long time.

Radio Brings Sad Messages.

It ended, however, in an echo of tragedy which deeply affected everyone of us. After the talk, messages from home were read. One of them was to one of the best of our company, a fine fellow who had listened to his mother speak a short time before and who had been moved by her evident sympathy as we had all been in sympathy. He was smiling again at the many messages, some of them amusing, which were received, when one to him announced the death of his brother. The important sound of it coming from the loud speaker was a great shock to him and it affected us all. Another man received word of the death of two favorite relatives. So it can be seen that at times we watch with dread the box from which word comes from home.

FIRE INSURANCE FIRMS OFFER TO REPAY $5,000,000

1,927: He said that point would be considered in the negotiations.

The 10 per cent reduction in rates of the stock fire insurance companies was ordered by former Insurance Superintendent Ben C. Hyde, effective Nov. 9, 1922, following issuance of a previous order reducing rates 15 per cent, which was tied up by an injunction.

The companies contested the 10 per cent reduction order and most of the 155 companies then involved signed a stipulation to conduct the case as an investigation of the reasonableness of the existing rates, and agreed not to contest the constitutionality of the law under which the order was made.

The State Supreme Court affirmed the State reduction order in May, 1926, and the United States Supreme Court refused to entertain an appeal by the companies on the ground no constitutional question was involved.

Companies Seek Injunction.

The companies later filed injunction suits in Federal District Court in Kansas City to restrain enforcement of the reduction order, and in these suits raised a question of constitutionality of the rating law.

Federal District Court in Kansas City, April 12, dissolved temporary injunctions issued to 121 of the companies which had entered into the original stipulations, but extended the injunctions to the other companies until May 15, when a hearing will be held on whether the injunctions will be made final. The number of companies involved in the case has been increased to 155 through other companies entering business in the State.

The 121 companies which lost in Federal Court are expected to appeal to the United States Supreme Court if the compromise offer fails and the State will appeal from the injunctive relief granted the other companies if the injunctions are made final.

"Natural" Finger Nails Adopted By SocietyChildren's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

WILLFULNESS, as sure as fate, will lead to trouble soon or late.

—Old Mother Nature.

THE WILLFUL YOUNG GANDER.

If the flock of Honker the Goose were several young geese, as is always the case in a big flock, these young geese were making their first trip back to the Far North. They were not yet mated, nor would they mate that year. There was a carefree life with nothing to do but learn the ways of the wise among geese and to have a good time generally.

Now, young geese are quite like young folks of other kinds. Some of them are quite likely to be willful; some of them are inclined to think they know it all; some of them are smarter than others; some of them are always obedient, while others are always looking for a chance to do what they want to rather than what they should.

In Honker's flock there was a young gander who had a very good opinion of himself. It goes without saying that he was a willful young gander. Honker, as leader of the flock, always had to keep a watchful eye on this young gander. It wasn't so much that Honker feared that the willful young gander would get into trouble himself as it was that he feared the willful young gander would lead other members of the flock into trouble. You see, this young gander liked to show off before the other young geese.

This willful young gander was indeed, which perhaps was quite natural. He was strong and handsome and he thought a very good deal of his appearance. He thought even more of his stomach. So when Farmer Brown's Boy had thrown a yellow corn out into the pond of Muddy the Beaver especially for Honker and his flock this willful young gander was one of the first run forward when Honker gave the word. Never was there a sillier young goose. He shoved them aside and scraped for the yellow grains as if no one were to be considered at all. He could not push his older geese aside for he had not yet attained full strength, but he could now and shove the younger geese aside, and this he did until finally Farmer drove him off by himself. When the last of the corn had been picked up the flock began to run about, dress their feathers.

Evening sports, street and afternoon costumes were displayed in a colorful collection that reached its climax with the showing of the bridal gown and a bridesmaid frock with a small flower girl and ring bearer leading the imaginary wedding party. At the end of the pretentious display of feminine finery the gowns proved so fascinating that the debutantes were unable to choose, so she ordered them all, "the bill to be sent to father."

The general impression given at the Junior League fashion show was a dresser tendency in the season's modes. Nothing is talked over or simple but costumes for actual sports wear and intricate manipulation of fabric and variety of silhouette, especially in formal attire, is emphasized. Some of the outstanding suggestions were the use of the twin print: the cape motif for town, afternoon and tea hour wear, and the importance of the ensemble.

The above sketches by Margaret Marlyn show a number of the newest and most interesting models displayed during the fashion show at the crystal ball.

Beginning at the left of the sketch, a printed chiffon embodying the first of three shades of nasturtium favored by Patou this season, is used as a background for a black design of graceful evening gown. A cowl collar surrounds the front of the bodice of the gown, which is moulded to the figure with circular flounces low placed giving length and grace to the skirt. Mrs. Knox Taussig modelled this frock.

Next in order is a garden party frock of sea foam chiffon. The close fitting bodice is quite long and adorned in an exquisite cape of gold thread lace. The long ruffled skirt is ankle length in the front and slightly longer in the back. A garden hat of green hair braid is trimmed in gold leaves. This was the costume worn by Miss Anne Farrar Semple.

The third figure represents the frock worn by Mrs. Wallace Hennock Smith. It is of matching prints, that is, a flowered georgette and taffeta printed in exactly the same design. The taffeta is used only for the sash or bustle-back drapery.

Society Girls as Mannequins at the Junior League Crystal Ball

By FAY PROFILET.

[I]n a setting of scintillating crystal the modes of spring and summer were charmingly presented by society young women as mannequins at the Junior League crystal ball at Hotel Jefferson Friday evening. The fashion show was incorporated into a skit, "The Debutante Selects Her Trousseau," with an exclusive fashion salon as the background. The playlet depicted an enthusiastic debutante seeking her mother in a series of lovely things for her trousseau. Mrs. Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr. took the part of the mother and Mrs. Samuel D. Capen Jr. the debutante. The models in creations from West End shops gracefully paraded before the "prospective shoppers" and promenaded the length of the gold ball room for the edification of the guests.

Evening sports, street and afternoon costumes were displayed in a colorful collection that reached its climax with the showing of the bridal gown and a bridesmaid frock with a small flower girl and ring bearer leading the imaginary wedding party. Some of the outstanding suggestions were the use of the twin print: the cape motif for town, afternoon and tea hour wear, and the importance of the ensemble.

The above sketches by Margaret Marlyn show a number of the newest and most interesting models displayed during the fashion show at the crystal ball.

Beginning at the left of the sketch, a printed chiffon embodying the first of three shades of nasturtium favored by Patou this season, is used as a background for a black design of graceful evening gown. A cowl collar surrounds the front of the bodice of the gown, which is moulded to the figure with circular flounces low placed giving length and grace to the skirt. Mrs. Knox Taussig modelled this frock.

Next in order is a garden party frock of sea foam chiffon. The close fitting bodice is quite long and adorned in an exquisite cape of gold thread lace. The long ruffled skirt is ankle length in the front and slightly longer in the back. A garden hat of green hair braid is trimmed in gold leaves. This was the costume worn by Miss Anne Farrar Semple.

The third figure represents the frock worn by Mrs. Wallace Hennock Smith. It is of matching prints, that is, a flowered georgette and taffeta printed in exactly the same design. The taffeta is used only for the sash or bustle-back drapery.

One of the newest and smartest gowns from a fashion angle was worn by Mrs. David R. Calhoun. It is in a lime green moire costume sponsored by Patou. This gown to be worn at semi-formal occasions, features the new peplum and has a slightly longer hem at the back. An unusual note is the half sleeves.

The bride's gown which was worn by Mrs. Chester Ellis Wright interested in heavy ivory satin. A close fitted bodice adorned in a deep V yoke of cream rose point lace and long tight sleeves of more of the lace. The full skirt attached by an irregular line to a bodice by cartridge plating, ankle length in front and sweeping in circular folds to the floor at the back. A lace veil forms the train, edged in a wide flounce of the tulle. The veil falls from a cap of the tulle held to the hair at the back of the head by a half wreath of calla lilies. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr., who impersonated the mother of the debutante, chose for shopping a daytime dress of charmeuse flat crepe that favors a softly draped collar. A partial pleated cape falls from the right shoulder and the skirt is pleated half way around. With this attractive costume she wore a large dark brown ballbun hat that was trimmmed in a wreath of cream lilies.

Mrs. Donald Gordon Jr. displayed the Lanvin robe de style of gros de faille in lemon and chartreuse tints. The long full skirt is scalloped and faced in the chartreuse. The only trimming on the gown is a cluster of pastel shaded flowers caught low at the front of the bodice.

The ultra decolletage at the back was cut almost to the waist and was ornamented with great American beauty roses. With the gown she displayed a wrap of the satin, a deep collar of white fox fur encircling the shoulders.

Other gowns modeled but not illustrated included the following:

A smart ensemble of water moss crepe collot worn by Miss Susie Singleton was a pleasing number of the fashion show. With the ensemble she wore a lemon-colored blouse trimmed in angora and her hat was of green felt to match the suit.

Mrs. Samuel D. Capen Jr., who took the part of the debutante in the playlet, wore a smartly tailored ensemble of oxford covert cloth.

The seven-eighth length coat was designed with a capulet collar edged in a single skin of ermine.

She wore a small black straw hat with the ensemble.

A version of the ensemble that was particularly attractive was modeled by Miss Louise Church. The costume of red and white print had a white tuck in blouse and a quilted seven-eighth length coat. With this she wore a becoming off-the-face felt hat to match.

A costume attracting much attention was of cashmere print chiffon edged in wide ruffles of blue and red tulles with a scarf of the tulles terminating in puffs in the two tones of tulles. This gown was displayed by Miss Elizabeth Douglas.

A chic sports costume was developed of French blue silk worn with a knitted blouse of gray trimming in the blue. A three-quarter length coat of gray angora and felt sports hat to match completed the costume which was charmingly displayed by Miss Elizabeth Hobbselle.

Mrs. Kenneth Drummond, as the bridesmaid, wore a frock of taffeta and tulles shading from coral to brown. The buffant skirt composed of layers of the tulles fell to the floor from the long tight bodice which was ornamented with narrow turquoise blue and silver ribbons placed at the natural waistline. Her picture hat of hair-braid matching the gown was trimmed in roses of harmonizing tones and she carried African daisies and snapdragons.

Miss Rebeca Baldwin, one of the cigarette girls, wore a striking gown of satin aquamarine.

Her gown marked by its severe smartness revealed the princess silhouette with rippling low placed fullness.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

R. HODGE lifted his eyes—brows. "If you mean a metal such as we use in this winter time and for sick people, I fear it is not available at this time. Jasper. Should you desire to go for a swim, however, the river is not far away. I am compelled to inform you that the hour has not yet arrived when men are permitted to make use of it. Men are not allowed to go in until after 7 o'clock during the spring and summer. From 3 o'clock till 5 it is the women's turn to go down to the river for a swim, it is against the law for a man to approach the woods over there at this time. But after supper, if you feel inclined, you may go to the river and find it absolutely private. There will be no women there to disturb you, you may rest assured. He did not speak lightly.

"I'll get out my bathing suit," said Barnaby, throwing his hat on the bed with other belongings.

Mr. Hodge looked a bit severe. "Several other people have spoken of bathing suits—in fact, a young woman came here several years ago to make her name and she showed my wife a—a—garment she said the law compelled her to wear when going into the ocean, and she only did it because it was a thing so disgraceful in her life."

Barnaby stared. "Don't—don't the women wear bathing suits here?"

"Such garments are most indecent, if we are to judge by—"

"Why, certainly. How else? You would not expect them to get their clothes wet, would you?" Mr. Hodge laughed heartily.

The arrival from gay New York regarded the landlord in silence for a moment.

"What's to keep inquisitive gentlemen from peeping?" he inquired, almost reproachfully.

The fat man's jovial face hardened. "It was fully a score of years ago that two of our young men were caught spying." He paused.

"What happened to them?"

"They were publicly flogged, confined in the pillory for six days on bread and water and subsequently banished from the colony. They have never been heard from since the day they crossed the river and went away. Jasper."

Barnaby unpacked his suitcase, got his freedom and his toilet articles, rubbed his hair and chin, and then sat himself down in the window to gaze broodingly out upon the quiet street. No motors, no rumble of trucks or clangor of bells, no jarring voices—nothing but an awful tranquility with dust coming on to make it all the more somber. The erring Mossberry's dog barked a couple of times. It was a relief. It was still more of a relief when Mr. Mossberry, not yet thoroughly chastened by ignominy, berated the beast in hoarse but convincing tones.

The sun was low; the great black forest was beginning to crowd down upon the village; distant cowbells clinked mournfully on the soft, still air; somewhere unseen ducks quacked as they waddled seaward.

Barnaby took out his gold coin and absently twirled it between finger and thumb. Then he lit a cigarette, but not jauntily or carelessly as was his wont, for with a consciousness that something surprised him, he drew back from the window and stealthily blew the smoke into the room. Somehow it didn't taste right. An unexpected predicament faced him. What was he to do with the beastly stub? He couldn't toss it into the street, there was no place in the room where he could dispose of it—

Then he heard women's voices in the street. Holding the cigarette behind his back he looked out. Women—even Puritans—were interesting. At any rate he was not in the habit of accepting them as figures of speech. The sex deserves at least the courtesy of a glance, if not a casual. And in this case it was not likely to be causal, for these were bound to be strange, unusual—

Two young women had stopped in the middle of the street for a moment's chat in passing. They were almost directly below and in front of his window. His first rather sweeping glance took in the quaint, old-fashioned costumes: prim, baffling skirts that came to the tops of their black, substantial half shoes, full at the hip and free at the bottom; white kerchiefs about their necks, rather gay dresses that covered their ears, tightly laced "thingamajigs" around their wrists. One of them, he noticed, wore a gray dress, the other a dun-colored frock. The latter was facing him. She had light, almost straw-colored hair, and she was not pretty. She carried several books under her arm. He sized it up at once: a schoolteacher.

Then suddenly the other, at a word from her companion, turned and looked up at his window. She quickly averted her eyes, having caught sight of him. Her cheeks colored. As for Barnaby, he leaned forward, a little, fixing a pair of inscrutable eyes upon her. He was guilty of staring, and that was something he never did. But there was good and sufficient cause for the detection.

She was lovely—lovely beyond compare. He had little more than

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

VOX POP.—As to the exact status of the question of social precedence involving the sister of the Vice President, the answer is that the diplomatic corps, that she should be accorded the place of the Vice President, is to be left to the discretion of other countries, and when this is remembered, it is seen that a tactful and gracious answer does not have to be made. They believed the State Department of making some ruling as to what they should abide by, but the American State Department has no doubt made some ruling of its kind available.

A. R.—The Mullany Traveler's Aid is listed in the Yellow Pages under the name of the board, and its offices are maintained at 1321A Market street and it operates the Traveler's Aid Post Office Station. You may get in touch with them through the exchange desk of the Social Service Building, so listed. The funds held in the name of the American Traveler's Aid Society are now owned by the National Travelers' Aid Society. It is affiliated with the National Travelers' Aid Society.
